CHINA FUMES AS PELOSI LANDS IN TAIPEI

US House Speaker Nancy Pelosi on Tuesday visited Taiwan, the highest elected US official to travel to the island nation, which China claims as its own territory, in more than 25 years. Pelosi ignored China's repeated warnings, including a veiled threat of military action, against her trip. She was on a tour of Asia that included visits to Singapore, Malaysia, South Korea and Japan. Her stop in Taiwan was not announced but was widely anticipated

ITINERARY

Pelosi is scheduled to meet Taiwanese President Tsai Ing-wen on Wednesday, according to reports. She may also meet a group of activists campaigning against China's human rights record

DON'T PLAY WITH FIRE, BEIJING WARNS

China claims Washington had assured Beijing that it would not dramatically change its policy towards Taiwan but that promise is now broken. Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi said the US' betrayal is bankrupting its national credibility. Wang Yi said US politicians who play with fire on the Taiwan issue will "come to no good end"

China's military said it was on "high alert" and would "launch a series of targeted military actions in response" to the visit. Taiwan's defence ministry said 21 Chinese military planes flew into its air defence identification zone (ADIZ) on Tuesday. ADIZ includes a far greater area that overlaps with part of China's own air defence zone

The US also deployed four of its warships, including aircraft carrier USS Ronald Reagan, in waters east of Taiwan in what the US Navy dubbed "routine deployments"

TRACKED FOR MONTHS BEFORE TAKING HIM OUT

Early this year, US officials identified Zawahiri's wife, daughter and her children had relocated to a safe house in Kabul

Zawahiri subsequently relocated to the same house. He never left the house. In early April, Joe Biden got his first briefing

Zawahiri was definitively identified while he was on the balcony of the house on multiple occasions

On July 25, Biden met key Cabinet members to evaluate the fallout. He, then, authorised "a precise tailored air strike" to minimise civilian casualties

The strike was finally carried out at 7.18 am IST on July 30 by a drone firing a couple of Hellfire missiles

CHANDAN NANDY @New Delhi

AL-QAEDA head Ayman al-Zawahiri, one of the key conspirators in the 9/11 attacks, was killed in a CIA drone strike on the balcony of his Kabul safe house, US President Joe Biden announced on Tuesday. It is being seen as the biggest blow to the global terror network ever since Osama bin Laden was killed in Pakistan in 2011.

Zawahiri's elimination will considerably weaken the Al Qaeda in the Indian Subcontinent (AQIS), which operates on a "low scale" in India with presence also in Afghanistan, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Myanmar, security officials said.

It also triggered speculation on whether the Pakistani regime sold him out to the US for crucial IMF aid — and to get off the gray list of terror financing — to save its crumbling economy, or was it the Taliban that gave the tip-off.

AQIS, whose influence is not as strong as Al Qaeda, is led by Asim Umar, an Indian who has been at its helm since September 2014 when it was reportedly founded by Zawahiri. Umar, who underwent training in radical Islamist theology in Karachi and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, hails from Sambhal in UP.

While Indian intelligence — and whatever little presence it has in Afghanistan — had no clue of the July 31 drone strike on Zawahiri, a quick, preliminary assessment by senior officials led them to conclude that "sufficient care needs to be taken within India so that hotheads here do not take to any form of violent means anywhere in India".

This, sources said, would mean wider and deeper surveillance of not only fundamentalist elements across India in general but also those still active in Kashmir.

Sources said that their concern stems from Zawahiri's April 2022 video message that praised a Karnataka girl for braving social outrage to don a hijab to college, especially when the student's father is a local Popular Front of India (PFI) leader. The PFI has been under the scanner of Indian security agencies, including the Intelligence Bureau.

The mechanics of the drone operation in Kabul suggest it was the result of an understanding between the Pakistani security establishment and the American intelligence organisation, security officials here claimed.

The Indian intelligence feels that the top echelon of the Pakistani ISI, with a nod from the political establishment, may have "created the conditions" or "devised an operation to identify" the house in the Sherpur area of Kabul where Zawahiri was hiding, before the CIA drone zeroed in on the target. The ISI's most clandestine unit, the Directorate S, is the "most likely" centre from where intelligence may have been shared with the CIA.

To this extent, they saw similarities in the "sudden but operationally sound" helicopter gunship raid on the Abbottabad hideout of Osama bin Laden on May 2, 2011, which, sources said, could not have been accomplished without the tacit support of the Pakistan army.

At that time, the Americans had troops on the ground. However, the August 2021 withdrawal of almost all US troops from Afghan soil has led Indian security officials to "assess and analyse" that Pakistan may have "provided intelligence (on the Sherpur house)" to their CIA friends as quid pro quo.

Rescue operations in progress at the landslide site in Muthalli in Bhatkal town

Landslide in Bhatkal claims four of a family

SUBHASH CHANDRA N S
@ Bhatkal

FOUR people from a single family were buried alive in a landslide in Bhatkal town on Tuesday morning. The landslide happened following heavy rain which lashed the district after a gap of two weeks causing damage to hundreds of houses.

The deceased have been identified as Lakshminarayana Naik (60), Lakshmi Naik (45), their son Narayan Naik (38) and Praveen Ramakrishna Naik, nephew of Lakshminarayana Naik. The hillock that caved in slowed down relief and rescue operations.

Residents of Bhatkal and surrounding villages spent the night in fear as the taluk recorded 533 mm rainfall. "The impact of the rainfall was such that many of us spent the night worrying about our safety," said Inayath, a local resident. The landslide occurred at 3 am in the morning, but it took 11 hours to dig out the bodies.

Bhatkal MLA Sunil Naik had to walk for miles to reach the affected place as the roads were blocked.

Uttara Kannada Deputy Commissioner, Mullai Muhilan said the incident was unfortunate as Bhatkal has not been affected by floods before. "The waterlogging is due to heavy rainfall and those affected by floods have been shifted to relief centres. At present, over 300 people have taken shelter in relief centres," he said. "There is no loss of life due to floods. The deaths were due to the landslide. NDRF, SDRF and a few naval experts have been deployed at some vulnerable places. The next three days are crucial as a red alert has been issued for Uttara Kannada district," he added.

Narayan Naik, brother of Lakshmi Naik, said, "There was a loud noise. We came out and saw a heap of mud and realised that it was a landslide. Since it was massive, we could not do much. We had to wait for rescue operations." P5

Second chance for those who missed CUET UG in July

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

CANDIDATES who missed the Central University Entrance Test undergraduate (CUET UG) exam in the first phase in July due to last-minute change of centres and cancellations, will get another chance in the second phase beginning August 4, officials said on Tuesday.

The National Testing Agency (NTA), which conducts the entrance examination, on Tuesday released admit cards for students appearing for the examination on August 4, 5 and 6 on Tuesday. Admit cards for the examinations to be held after August 6 will be issued later.

The testing agency also announced that exams for candidates affected by the flood and having other entrance and competitive examinations during this period had been shifted to August 12, 13 and 14 from August 4, 5 and 6, following various representations

Technical problems in the first phase marred the first-ever CUET. Exams were cancelled in two centres, one in West Bengal's New Jalpaiguri and other Punjab's Pathankot – owing to technical issues.

NTA said 19 students who missed the exams in these two centres can now take them.

Registered candidates can download their admit cards from the official website — cuet.samarth.ac.in — by logging in through their registered credentials.

ED searches National Herald office in money laundering case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Enforcement Directorate on Tuesday carried out raids at 12 locations, including the Herald House at Bahadurshah Zafar Marg in New Delhi, in connection with the National Herald money-laundering case. The searches come close on the heels of the ED questioning Congress chief Sonia Gandhi and her Rahul in the matter.

Herald House is the office of National Herald and that of its publisher Associate Journals Ltd (AJL), which is under probe over its acquisition by Young Indian Private Ltd.

The searches added fresh fuel to ongoing acrimony between the Congress and the BJP, with the former accusing the ruling party of vendetta. "This is absolute rock bottom for Indian politics," Congress spokesperson Supriya Shrinate told reporters.

The BJP refuted the charges, claiming the law was taking its own course.

Sonia and her son Rahul are among the promoters and majority shareholders in Young Indian with 38% stake each. It is alleged that Young Indian paid only a paltry sum of ₹50 lakh to obtain the right to recover ₹90.25 crore that AJL owed to the grand old party.

The Congress has maintained there has been no wrongdoing. Since Young Indian is a not-for-profit company established under Section 25 of the Companies Act, there can be no question of money laundering, it contends.

8-yr-old girl dies, parents fall ill after fumigation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a tragic incident, an eight-year-old girl died and her parents took ill after their house was fumigated for pest control. The incident occurred in Vasanth Nagar in High Grounds Police Station limits on Monday morning.

The deceased has been identified as Ahane V Nair, a Class 4 student. Her parents are undergoing treatment at a private hospital. Ahane's father, Vinod, works with a private firm while her mother, Nisha, is a homemaker. The police, who have registered a case of death caused by negligence, have detained the owner of the building for questioning.

Police said the girl's family, which hails from Kerala, lived in a rented house at Maramma Temple street in Vasanth Nagar for the last 3-4 years. As the houses in the building were infested with cockroaches and bugs, the owner Shivashankar, who lives on the ground floor, had decided to fumigate the house and had asked the tenants to vacate the house.

A relative of the victim, who did not wish to be named, said, "The family had gone to Kerala on Thursday night and the owner got the building fumigated. The family returned on early Monday morning and rested for a while. When they woke up, they were feeling dizzy and had a vomiting sensation." P2

Cabinet panel clears withdrawal of charges against 30 activists

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A Cabinet Sub-Committee headed by Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhu Swamy on Tuesday decided to recommend withdrawal of cases against 30 people who are facing trials in various courts of the state.

The cases against the accused, including BJP workers and farmers, pertain to damaging public property during protest rallies and demonstrations. Home Minister Araga Jnanendra is also part of the committee.

The recommendations for withdrawal of the cases will now be sent to the state cabinet which will take a final decision in its next meeting headed by Chief Minister Bommai. However, the cabinet's decision will be subject to the decision of the courts.

Though the review of the cases is a routine process, it assumes significance in the wake of the 2023 elections as it involves activists, which include BJP workers. Dropping cases against farmers is also likely to send out a message that the government is with them, a party leader said.

"It's not appropriate to say that the withdrawal of cases are in favour of right-wing or left-wing activists, as the recommendations also favour farmers against whom cases have been filed", clarified Madhu Swamy.

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

TEJASWINI, wife of former Union minister late Ananth Kumar, has kicked up a storm by suggesting that schoolchildren should not be provided eggs in mid-day meals and the diet should be only vegetarian. Tejaswini, who runs Adamya Chetana, a facility that prepares meals for school kids said eggs fall into the category of non-vegetarian food.

She tweeted, "Why has our Karnataka govt decided to give eggs in mid-day meal? These are not the only source of nutrition. It is also exclusionary to many students who are vegetarians. Our policies are to be designed in such a way that every student has equal opportunity.''

Her tweet came under heavy fire from many on social media.

Also, defending children's right to nutritional food, a group of nutritionists, activists, researchers, doctors and citizens of Karnataka have written to Chief Secretary Vandana Sharma on Tuesday demanding a nutritional diet.

Sai Layout floods for the 3rd time this year

Population rise, new houses choking the existing drainage system; Rlys yet to give approval for widening vent

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

MONDAY night's copious rain left Sai Layout in Bengaluru flooded for the third time this year. This time, dirty water entered into about 70 homes in the locality.

Cots, electronic items, groceries and other house hold items were submerged in three feet of storm water. M Shahajahan, a resident in despair, spoke to TNIE about being forced to live in a rented house as his home was flooded.

"I have a Xerox shop attached to my house and is our only livelihood. Now I have to start all over again. This is the third time I have suffered loss due to rains. I suffered a stroke the last time as I had to stand in the flood water for two days a few months back. I was just recovering and again my house is flooded. Despite me having my own house, I had to move to a rented house now," said Shahajahan.

A woman walks through her flooded home, in Horamavu following countinuos rains after heavy rainfall through Monday night | SHRIRAM BM

The layout formed two decades ago saw a population rise with the IT influx, thousands of houses have come up and have choked the existing storm water drain capacity. As a result, whenever it rains heavily, the drain water from upper Hebbala stream gushes and floods low lying layouts.

"After the previous flooding, CM Bommai visited the locality and promised to set things right. The vent near Kothanur Railway Bridge should be widened and storm water drain capacity should be increased at the earliest. Had these things been addressed, the layout would not have been flooded now." said Chand Pasha, a ration shop owner.

Dr Triloka Chandra, Mahadevapura Zone Incharge Commissioner, BBMP, said that work on correcting the storm water drains is on. However, a senior official said that the railway department is yet to give permission on vent widening.

Citizens stay up all night, bail out drain water

BENGALURU : As the rain came down in sheets on Monday night, residents of around 144 houses stayed up all night in Anugraha Layout in Bommanahalli, bailing out rain and drain water. Several cars, bikes, roads and houses were submerged. Furious residents expressed their anger against the BBMP, and demanded a permanent solution. BBMP officials, including the Joint Commissioner, visited the spot and assured residents that the tender for digging a well is in progress. Fire and emergency personnel rushed to the spot to pump out water from houses. Fire personnel came to the layout early morning and took more than two hours to clear the water.

City miserable after 160 mm rain

BENGALURU : 'IT capital' Bengaluru, which was battered by rain on Monday, did not get any respite on Tuesday either, as 160mm rainfall left low-lying areas flooded. As per the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre's website and BBMP, HBR Layout, 3rd Block 1st stage was flooded. With swelling of drains at KR Puram, Bheemaiah Layout was flooded.

Swiggy agents told not to block roads

NAMRATA SINDWANI @ Bengaluru

THE Whitefield traffic police, carrying out an enforcement drive on Monday, ordered all delivery agents of online food app Swiggy to stop encroaching footpaths and roads, causing inconvenience to the residents of Prashant Layout.

Sandeep Anirudhan, founder of Namma Whitefield Federation of Residents and RWAs in the area, said that residents complained about the numerous times they had faced inconvenience. The delivery partners' vehicles block the pedestrian passage and are parked all over the roads, causing traffic jams. He added that 40-50 delivery boys are always hanging around in the area. Whether sun or rain, delivery boys don't have a designated facility for waiting, or proper toilets, so they are always on the streets, Anirudhan said, adding that the company does not invest in it, delivery boys are treated poorly and don't have many amenities for them. V Harish, sub-inspector, Whitefield Traffic Police, said the ITPL Road footpath is used by senior citizens. The problem is prevalent in all cities, as they take up parking space of 15-20 vehicles, and eventually many people start gathering in the area. There is no proper parking space for all food delivery boys across the city. He added that they received many complaints regarding this, and had warned the delivery boys earlier as well. The Swiggy manager and food delivery boys were told to stop creating nuisance on the roads, or action would be taken and their licenses cancelled.

The manager said that proper parking and other amenities will be organised.

S. LALITHA @ Bengaluru

Seated in the first row of the Bengaluru-Hyderabad flight was Dr Arun Mavaji, Director for Medblaze. He was travelling to attendbusiness meetings in Hyderabad. Dr Mavaji, who got to see the lightning flash, relived the entire situation to TNIE. "Flight I5-1596 had left at the scheduled time from Bengaluru by 7.35 am and was scheduled to reach Hyderabad on time," he recalled. A short while later, the flight kept hovering over the Rajiv Gandhi International Airport for 15 minutes and did not land. "I saw the lightning reflect on the window. The lightning appeared to have hit the wing of the aircraft. The pilot later announced that due to congestion at the airport and low fuel, the Air Traffic Control at Hyderabad had directed the flight back to Bengaluru airport," the doctor said. "The ordeal did not end after reaching Bengaluru at 9.55 am. "A crew member announced that a new team would be in-charge of the flight and the crew change would take an hour. We were provided with snacks and beverages. The new team announced that the aircraft had suffered damage. The crew also announced that the flight required the permission from the DGCA, after an inspection, to operate. We were later told that we would fly again on a different flight," Dr Mavaji recalled. Flyers were told to alight from the aircraft and were taken to the terminal. The hand baggage was subjected to frisking again apart from physical checks. They were taken by bus to board another aircraft nearly four hours later.

AN AirAsia India flight, which took off on Tuesday morning from Bengaluru to Hyderabad, was struck by lightning as it neared the Rajiv Gandhi International Airport there and had to return. None of passengers on board were hurt but the aircraft suffered some damage. The Airbus A320 which took off at 7.39 am had 91 passengers on board, said an airport source. This included two wheel-chair bound passengers as well as children, he said.

According to an airline spokesperson, "AirAsia India flight I5-1576, operating from Bengaluru to Hyderabad, returned to Bengaluru due to air traffic congestion caused by inclement weather."

An inspection by the airline later revealed that the aircraft had encountered a lightning strike. "Lighting strikes, although rare, do occur and aircraft are safeguarded against strikes which do not pose a risk. The safety of guests and the aircraft remained intact at all points," the spokesperson said. AirAsia India did not confirm the passenger count despite many requests. Passengers on board were unhappy over the lack of information provided.

Flyer Rudrani tweeted: "I5 1576 was diverted back to Bengaluru from Hyd on the pretext of refuelling. After landing at Bengaluru airport, we are now told that there is technical issue and that there might be aircraft change. This is becoming hilarious." He was critical about the different reasons given for the incident by "clueless" airline crew. Another passenger Dr Arun Mavaji tweeted that after returning to Bengaluru and refuelling, the flight staff realised the aircraft was damaged.

AirAsia India tweeted that a change of aircraft was being made to carry the passengers while the spokesperson claimed the aircraft was intact.

03RD August : Electrifying and Mercurial alignments could trigger all sorts of weird and wonderful events. Whatever we do, though, starts with us and the strange choices we make. For many of us the first inclination will be to aim for the most unusual alternatives. Mind you, if we all did that at the same time, the world might go mad!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
There's a superb if challenging tie-up between planets responsible for your career and your finances. What this means now is that increased prestige and enhanced earnings could well go hand-in-hand. But you may find that it's a community role which fulfils your needs.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
It can be so annoying when people at work are uncertain about their opinions and vague about their plans, but you are also likely to be affected by such a loss of direction some time soon. It may even be possible to follow up completely contradictory courses of action at the same time.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
A series of reassuring aspects to your favourite planets will only be effective if you take steps to put all your plans and intentions on a sound practical basis. There is no room for waffle, perhaps because people out there are relying on you to show what you're made of.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You are benefiting from a striking relationship with expansive, optimistic Jupiter and generous gestures will do you good in the long run. One thing you can do for yourself at the moment is find unusual solutions to old and familiar problems. You never know - it might just work!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Your life is so often a question of keeping up with the neighbours, rather than of making real substantial improvements in your affairs based on what is good for you. You may now be realising that such a course can involve you in unexpected costs, and that perhaps you have needs which you've ignored for too long.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Life is often so serious and sober, yet it's open to you to follow sudden impulses if you wish, however ridiculous or child-like they may be. All similarly-minded spirits and soul-mates will support you in your endeavours, so surround yourself with people who are on your wavelength.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It must be so strange when your plans work out in unexpected ways. Yet nothing in astr-ology happens without a reason, and you must see that over the next few weeks you will be given a chance to change your direction. Whether you seize opportunities now, or wait until they come round again, is up to you, so choose wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Stay cool. Don't over-react or over-dramatise your emotional problems just because you feel that you have been hard-done-by in the past. You should reflect deeply on all your complaints before unjustly accusing your fellows because, if it turns out that you're wrong, you'll never forgive yourself!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The fact that planetary activity is so much less intense than in the past should allow you to relax. But please keep an eye on apparently trivial complaints at home which could flare up without warning. If someone close by is bothered by secret fears, then offer whatever support you can.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You've had it relatively easy in your professional life over recent weeks, while those of you with worldly ambitions have found them simple to fulfil. Yet now you may have to go into reverse gear once again. An added twist comes when you either work with a friend - or become attracted to a colleague.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The time has at last come to deepen your knowledge and improve your wisdom through a little careful thought and inquiry. At work you will now begin to benefit from improved friendships. And, in an intimate relationship, you spot an opportunity to line your pocket!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You specialise in keeping yourself to yourself. Today is no exception to that general rule, and you will be even less prepared than usual to betray your secrets or share treasured information with others. Your best policy is to keep people informed on a 'need-to-know' basis.

WB woman video-calls hubby, ends life

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

A 30-year-old woman from West Bengal who had gone missing with her three-year-old son around two weeks ago, died by suicide after making a video call to her husband. The woman called her husband from an unknown number, and told him that she can neither return to him nor go back to her parents' house, and hanged herself as her husband watched. Her son was with her at the time.

Her husband rushed to the police and showed them the video clip, and they found her location to be near Kaggalipura on Kanakapura Road. West Bengal police then informed Karnataka police, seeking immediate intervention. The husband reached Bengaluru and took custody of the son. He also cremated his wife's body here on Sunday.

The deceased was identified as Munmun Ghosh, a native of Hooghly district in West Bengal, and her husband as Tapas Ghosh, 36. After she went missing, Tapas had registered a case at West Bengal's Srirampura police station.

Speaking to TNIE on his way back to West Bengal on Tuesday, Tapas Ghosh said his wife was a homemaker. "We don't know why she came to Bengaluru. She called from a different mobile number. She had told me she would be visiting her parents, and left with our son on July 14. From there, she went missing on July 18. I got a video call last Friday, which was the last call. Her last words were to take care of our son. My son was with the landlady of the house where my wife was staying as a tenant," Tapas added.

Police filed the complaint on Sunday.

"A case of unnatural death was registered. We are waiting for the postmortem report to ascertain the exact cause of death. West Bengal police will look into the reasons why the victim came to Bengaluru," said an officer on part of investigations.

Tibetan boy's samples sent to VRDL

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

THE Virus Research and Diagnostic Laboratory (VRDL) at Bengaluru Medical College and Research Institute (BMCRI) has received the sample of the third suspected case of monkeypox in the state, from Hubballi.

A nine-year-old Tibetan boy, who had returned from Belgium, developed symptoms of monkeypox, including skin rashes. He has been isolated at a hospital in Hubballi, and his samples were sent to VRDL on Monday evening, sources in the health department said.

The child came to India with his parents and a Tibetan priest on July 1. He had arrived in Delhi and visited a Tibetan camp at Himachal Pradesh, and Nagpur in Maharashtra. He had also visited the Mundgod monastery in Uttara Kannada district, and then reached Hubballi, sources said. "It could be another case of chickenpox as he had come to the country on July 1 itself, and the incubation period of monkeypox is not that long," a source said.

Earlier, the sample of the second suspected case of monkeypox -- a middle-aged African who had come from Ethiopia -- received from a private hospital in Bengaluru, tested negative for monkeypox. The sample of the first suspected case from Bengaluru was also negative.

No monkeypox cases, but state on alert

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday directed health officials to train medical and paramedical staff, to prevent the spread of monkeypox in Karnataka.

He also directed officials to identify private hospitals and places where people infected with monkeypox can be isolated and treated. He stressed the need to raise awareness among the public about monkeypox.

Health Minister Dr Sudhakar urged people not to panic. Sudhakar took part in the review meeting on monkeypox chaired by Bommai on Tuesday. Later, he told reporters that the World Health Organisation has declared it a health emergency and so far, over 20,000 cases have been reported in 80 countries. Of these, six cases have been reported in India, including four in Kerala.

Sudhakar said that no monkeypox cases have so far been reported in Karnataka. "We had three suspected cases, of which two turned negative and we are awaiting the report of the third case. We have designated two hospitals -- one in Bengaluru and the other one in Mangaluru -- where patient can be be isolated for 21 days," he added. The State government is keeping vigil at airports, ports and border areas along Kerala. "We will carry out thermal screening, and suspect cases will be sent to hospital. The infection does not spread like Covid-19, only if a person is in touch with an infected person for long, are there chances of contracting monkeypox," he said.

High Court issues notice to state on allotting land cheaply to pvt varsity

BENGALURU: The Karnataka High Court on Tuesday issued notice to the state government on a PIL questioning allotment of 116.16 acres of land, acquired by the KIADB from farmers in Devanahalli, to a private university called Chanakya University. It was done by former chief minister BS Yediyurappa without following minimal procedures, for a meagre price of Rs 50.17 crore. The petition filed by advocate Sudha Katwa challenged the order dated April 28, 2021, passed by the government to approve grant of KIADB land to the Centre for Educational and Social Studies (CESS) for establishment of Chanakya University, two days after the cabinet gave its nod on April 26, 2021. A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty issued notice the Chief Secretary, Additional Chief Secretary, Department of Commerce and Industries, KIADB and CESS. ENS

Shah in state as BJP govt faces ire of workers

Union Home Minister to attend CII event

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah is visiting the state on Wednesday, at a time when a section of BJP workers is expressing outrage against the Basavaraj Bommai government over BJP Yuva Morcha leader Praveen Nettaru's murder.

Shah will arrive at 11.30 pm here on Wednesday and stay overnight before taking part in the 'Sankalp Se Siddhi', organised by the Confederation of Indian Industry to celebrate the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav on Thursday. He will leave for the national capital around 2.30 pm.

Speculation is rife as to whether he will interact with BJP leaders to take stock of the situation in the state, especially coastal areas. Shah's visit is expected to boost the morale of BJP workers and send out a message that the party is with them. Some instructions are likely to be passed on to the government too, sources said.

The mass resignation of BJYM workers and storming of Home Minister Araga Jnanendra's house by party student wing ABVP workers following Nettaru's murder are a cause of worry for the party ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls.

Chakravarty Sulibele, a right wing activist and a supporter of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, too had attacked the chief minister in a series of tweets on Monday. "BJP still has the time to recover. Just reach out to Karyakarta, listen to him. Show the best governance model. Act tough on bad elements. Take hard decision and act on it. Many like me can never vote Congress but v are not fools either to keep people like u on power! Jai hind (sic)", he suggested.

But BJP chief spokesperson MG Mahesh said Shah's visit has nothing to do with political developments in the state. "It is development-oriented on the invitation of CII as to how to take along leaders from all fronts," he added.

Ahead of Shah's visit, Congress did not waste time in speculating about a leadership change. "BJP workers and supporters are exposing irregularities and failures of this government. Bommai, you are stranger to that party how much ever you wear the Sangh Parivar robes. Is it true that with the grace of Keshava Kripa (RSS Hq in Bengaluru) BJP government seeing its third CM in a row soon," it tweeted.

DK KILLINGS

Praveen was third, last in assailants' hit list

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

THE Dakshina Kannada police on Tuesday claimed to have solved the murder of BJP Yuva Morcha worker Praveen Nettaru with the arrest of two more people.

SP Rishikesh Sonawane identified the accused as Saddam (32) and Haris (42), both residents of Pallimajalu near Bellare. With this, the total number of arrests in the case has gone up to four. The other two, Shafiq and Zakir, were arrested on July 28. The SP said that a few more will be arrested in the case soon. "The investigating team has identified the suspected conspirators and assailants in the case. They are absconding and the search is on to nab them," he said.

The Bellare police have booked the accused under Sections 16, 18 of UA(P) Act 1967 and sections 302, 120B r/w 34 of the IPC. The SP said the strict UAPA was invoked as the murder was intended to create a fear among people. Given the timing of the crime and residence of the accused, the police strongly feel that Praveen's murder was a retaliation for B Masood's murder on July 19. A source said the accused have links with a fanatic organisation that is feared for its targeted political murders in Kerala and elsewhere.

Saddam, who was arrested on Tuesday, runs a chicken shop. He along with two others, who are yet to be arrested, hatched the conspiracy to eliminate Praveen. They had set their target on three people, and Praveen was the third in their list. The first one was not available alone and the second had not returned to the village after he had gone out. Hence, Praveen who was shuttling between his house and chicken shop became their easy and soft target. The accused followed Praveen for three to four days and also did a recce of the crime spot. Sources said the accused were a tough nut to crack and had carried out the crime meticulously. "They had formatted their mobile phones, dumped them at their homes after switching them off and vanished from the region. They had left very little clues and we had to go for the bottom-up approach." said an officer.

Several constraints led to the delay in cracking the case and helped the accused escape, police sources said. "We lost crucial three days after the incident due to drama played out at the hospital, then at the funeral and due to the CM's visit," said a senior official.

Fazil was picked randomly to avenge Nettaru killing

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

THE Mangaluru city police have cracked the murder of Mohammed Fazil in Surathkal with the arrest of six people on Tuesday. The accused – Suhas Shetty (29), Mohan alias Mohan Singh (26), Giridhar (23), Abhishek (21), Srinivas (23) and Dikshit (21), who are associated with some right wing organisations, decided to eliminate Fazil as a retaliation for BJP Yuva Morcha member Praveen Nettaru's murder.

Soon after the news of Nettaru's murder broke out on the night of July 26, the main accused, Suhas Shetty, called Abhishek over phone and discussed that they should eliminate "someone" before July 27 afternoon. The next day, they met the other four accused and discussed the logistics and weapons to be used in the crime. They also made a hit list of 6-7 people, who are known to them, the police said.

On July 28 morning, Suhas and three others started off in a rented car with weapons and visited Karinjeshwara in Bantwal. Later, they came to the Mangaluru law courts, where Suhas had to appear for a hearing. After the hearing, they met near a school close by and finalised Fazil's name. Police sources said Fazil was associated with leaders of some organisations and had become popular in his area and hence became the target.

Later, they purchased monkey caps and went to Surathkal, where they met the other two accused. They had lunch at a bar and restaurant in Kinnigoli and set off on their mission. After searching for some time, they finally located Fazil near a garment shop and killed him after chasing him. While Suhas, Mohan and Abhishek were the assailants, Giridhar was driving the car. Two others were standing guard for the other accused.

After the crime, they abandoned the car at Inna village near Karkala and escaped in another car. Police Commissioner N Shashikumar told reporters that the accused were arrested from Udyavara in Udupi district. Shetty is a rowdy-sheeter and was sacked as 'Go Rakshak Pramukh' of an orgsanisation a few years ago after his involvement in a murder. Abhishek and Srinivas too are rowdy-sheeters. The other three accused also have criminal cases pending against them in different police stations.

2 booked in Belagavi for provocative posts

BELAGAVI: The Belagavi police have registered a case against two suspects, including a Delhi resident, on charges of inciting communal tensions on social media amongst a particular community in various parts of the district. According to sources, while one of the two suspects -- identified as Tausif Dondi (21) of Shiraguppi, Kagwad taluk -- has been held, the Delhi local is yet to be arrested.

Revenge, the motive behind murders

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

With the murders of BJP Yuva Morcha leader Praveen Nettaru and Mohammed Fazil solved, the suspicion that these crimes could have been carried out as an act of revenge has come true. Praveen was murdered to avenge the killing of B Masood, while Fazil was killed in retaliation for Praveen's murder.

In both cases, it was religious fanaticism and hate that drove the accused. There are a lot of similarities in both murders, like the accused had links with extremist organisations or right wing outfits, had a hit list and picked the targets randomly. Also, both Praveen and Fazil were quite popular in their region. Law enforcement agencies see this as a dangerous trend that has to be stopped immediately. A senior officer said there is an urgent need for political leaders of different hues to come on the same platform and appeal for harmony.

"If provocative speeches are not dealt with strictly, then such crime will only increase in an election year," he said. Another disturbing trend seen is several gangs falsely claiming responsibility.

Since posting provocative messages in social media is also seen as a major reason for such hate crimes, these sites will be watched, SP Shashikumar said.

Govt won't notify MM Hills as tiger reserve: Somanna

ENS @ Mysuru

IN the wake of protests from villagers and the farming community against the proposed plans to declare MM Hills forest as tiger reserve, Housing Minister V Somanna on Tuesday announced that the government will drop the proposal.

He made it clear that the state government will not allow the Tiger Project proposal as the MM Hills is a prominent pilgrimage centre and there are a good number of villages falling on the fringe of the forest. He felt that the project should neither affect the people living in the region nor the devotees who throng the hills shrine.

Speaking to media persons, Somanna termed farmers of the region as owners of MM Hills and said any project must contribute to the development of the region and create facilities for the general public and not work against their interests. "We will not approve the Tiger Project," he clarified.

The report recommending the declaration of MM Hills as a Tiger Project was presented to the government and was about to be notified at any time. However, the local population opposed it and even threatened to intensify the protest against the government.

Rahul attends state Cong's first PAC meet in Hubballi

PRAMODKUMAR VAIDYA @ Hubballi

AHEAD of the 2013 Assembly election, the Political Affairs Committee (PAC) of the state Congress met here on Tuesday in the presence of party senior leader Rahul Gandhi, who was in the city to take part in Siddaramotsava, the 75th birthday celebration of CLP leader Siddaramaiah to be held in Davanagere on Wednesday.

The 35-member PAC was constituted recently following a decision taken at the Udaipur Chintan Baithak and it met for the first time after its formation. AICC General Secretary (organisation) KC Venugopal chaired the meeting of the committee, which has been formed to prepare the party for the election and chalk out the poll strategy.

After the meeting, Venugopal said, "We had a fruitful discussion for the 2023 elections. On every important issue, PAC meets frequently and takes collective decisions."

He said Rahul appealed to the leaders to go aggressively against the misrule of the BJP governments in the state and Centre. The leaders were asked to stand united and fight against anti-people and anti-democratic policies of the Union and state governments.

"We have to work for the people and convince them that there will be a people-centric government in Karnataka. The party is chalking out programmes to address their concerns. All leaders opined that Congress should fight united against the BJP governments. The meeting decided to drive out the corrupt government in Karnataka in 2023," he added.

He said, "The leaders were asked not to air different opinions inside or outside the party forum and not to discuss any internal issues in public."

Asked whether the leaders were asked not to raise the leadership issue till the election campaign starts, he said, "There is no leadership issue... no talk on that at all. As per the party's policy, the MLAs and the leadership will decide on it after winning the election," he said.

Sources, aware of the meeting details, said that Venugopal expressed his displeasure over party leaders' out-of-turn comments in public over the chief minister's post and censured the leaders. Rahul, however, did not comment on the issue.

Senior leaders Mallikarjun Kharge, KH Muniyappa and AICC state in-charge Randeep Singh Surjewala did not attend the meeting due to personal reasons. Except for the, the majority of the PAC members attended the deliberations.

Happy to be in K'taka: Rahul

Immediately after landing, Rahul shared his views about Hubballi visit on his social media page. "It is always a great joy to be back in Karnataka. The warmth & hospitality here is humbling. Look forward to interacting with the people of the state and learning from their experiences. The path to Karnataka's prosperity is through progressive, people-centric policies. We are committed to bring that to the doorstep of every household," he tweeted.

On his way back to Bengaluru, he will stop over at Taralabalu Mutt at Sirigere and Murugharajendra Brihanmutt at Chitradurga and pay obeisance to the swamijis.

State Congress questions ED raids on leaders

BANSY KALAPPA @ New Delhi, Bengaluru

AMIDST raids by the Enforcement Directorate at a dozen locations in the National Herald case, a few senior Congress leaders questioned the action by the central agency.

The reaction by Congress leaders follows similar outrage seen across the country recently, when national leaders Rahul Gandhi and Sonia Gandhi were questioned by ED.

Opposition leader in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge said, "It is a political vendetta to purposely disturb Congress and tarnish its image. As per our Constitution, it is not right for the ruling party to intimidate opposition parties. Congress won't tolerate it."

Congress General Secretary for Maharashtra HK Patil said, "It is unfortunate that the government is trying to curb the voice of the opposition. Such action is only to suppress and weaken democracy."

DKS gets regular bail

KPCC president DK Shivakumar, who is an accused in an ED case filed in 2019, was enlarged on bail on Tuesday. Shivakumar was personally present before the Special ED Court in Delhi, along with the other accused -- businessmen S Narayan, SK Sharma and others.

The special court in New Delhi granted bail to Shivakumar in the money-laundering case with three conditions.

Shraavana: Kids can opt to have eggs from next month

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

SHRAAVANA, an auspicious month in the Hindu calendar, seems to have come in the way of supplying eggs to children in mid-day meals at some schools. The Department of Public Instruction clarified that it will not provide banana/groundnut chikki, which is given to vegan students, as an alternative to such students and instead, continue with the programme from next month.

During Shraavana, many families do not eat eggs or non-vegetarian food, and many children at schools too are refusing to consume eggs, said a source in the education department. Asked if these kids will be given bananas and chikkis this month, DPI Commissioner Dr Vishal R said they will give eggs to such children from next month, instead of this month.

To improve nutrition among children, the department of school education and literacy has started giving eggs or banana/groundnut chikkis (for vegans) at a cost of Rs 6 per day along with mid-day meals for 46 days to over 45 lakh children of government and aided schools studying from class 1 to class 8. The supplementary nutrition is being provided under the 'Prime Minister Poshan Shakthi Nirmaan' scheme with 60 per cent of funds coming from the state, and the rest from the Centre.

A group of citizens, 'Aahaara Namma Hakku', submitted a letter to Chief Secretary Vandita Sharma, urging her to ensure eggs for children five days a week, including for students of Classes 9 and 10.

'57L schoolhildren to get uniform next month'

DPI Commissioner Dr Vishal R said they will complete the process of distributing uniforms to 57 lakh government schoolchildren by the end of next month.

'Extend egg scheme to Classes 9, 10'

THEY have urged the authorities to include eggs in the diet. They urged the Chief Secretary to take steps to ensure the nutritional entitlements of the schoolchildren under the National Food Security Act 2013 and provided for by directions by the Supreme Court.

"Inclusion of eggs in the mid-day meal has been a consistent demand of schoolchildren and their parents. The propagation of one's own religious practices is prohibited under the revised Guidelines 2017 in Mid Day Meal Scheme," they said in the letter to CS, adding, "No one should discriminate in any manner on the basis of religion, caste and creed, and should not use the programme for propagation of any religious practice. We urge that eggs served under the mid-day meals should be extended to Class 9 and 10."

Tejaswini also tweeted, "Have worked with hundreds of government school teachers and students in the area of mid-day meals for close to 20 years. If the govt wants to provide eggs they should be given as a take-home ration along with other food and fruits or chikkis to non-egg eaters."

The Karnataka High Court on Tuesday issued a notice to the state government on a public interest litigation questioning allotment of 116.16 acres of land, acquired by the Karnataka Industrial Area Development Board from farmers in Devanahalli, to a private university called Chanakya University

BIPARTISAN APPROACH NEEDED TO EASE PRICE RISE WOES

Finance Minister Nirmala Seetharaman met the Opposition attack head-on in Parliament by pointing out that the economy was on the mend, and there was 'zero' chance of the country slipping into a technical recession, implying degrowth for two consecutive quarters. To bolster her case, she quoted the collections of Goods & Services Tax (GST) that show a rise of 28% to ₹1.49 lakh crore to its second highest level in July this year, after topping at ₹1.68 lakh crore in April. Though aggressive collection and anti-evasion measures are part of the success story, these figures do indicate a post-Covid regeneration. This is also borne out by the Index of Industrial Production (IIP) zooming to 19.6% in May as against 7.1% in April, wherein the manufacturing sector alone grew 20.6%.

There has also been a conscious effort to reduce the price pressure on the masses. Steel prices had been cut, benefitting MSMEs, while edible oil and gasoline prices—both big drivers of inflation—have been substantially reduced. While these policy moves are laudable, the global headwinds of a dragging war in the Ukraine, food shortages and volatile crude oil prices will pose a serious challenge. This is conceded by the Reserve Bank (RBI), which has insisted on firming up interest rates as inflation has stayed above the RBI's upper tolerance level of 6% for six months.

The government must also seriously respond to the Opposition's charge that the unbridled imposition of GST on various goods has eroded family incomes. In its last round, the GST council has brought items such as flour, curd and paneer, pencils and sharpeners, and other children's products into the tax net, making the impact of inflation and unemployment more uncomfortable. In a period of slowdown and vanishing jobs, the additional GST burden should have been avoided. It is also high time that the treasury and Opposition benches tackle issues concerning national interests such as price rise with a bipartisan approach without attempting to score brownie points. Easing the woes of the common person should be the common agenda.

GOVT IN BIND OVER VROs ABOLITION

A new storm is brewing in Telangana. The state government's ambitious New Revenue Act, passed in 2020, faces an acid test. The Act abolished the decades-old Village Revenue Officers (VROs) system. The state government recently issued a government order that all the VROs, who did not have specific responsibilities after the Act abolished their jobs, would now be accommodated in other departments in the rank of junior assistants. There are currently 5,088 VROs, without work attached to Tahasildar offices against the sanctioned strength of 7,039 posts.

After the late NTR took over as chief minister of undivided Andhra Pradesh in 1983, he scrapped the then-existing Patel Patwari system in 1985 in the wake of several allegations. In its place came the Village Revenue Assistants' mechanism. In 1990, the then government created Village Revenue Officers for land administration. In 2020, Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao brought in the New Revenue Act to make land administration hassle-free. The intention is honourable as the VRO system was breeding corruption. The government also introduced several other reforms, including digitising land maps and launching Dharani, a portal to end land disputes and land grabbing.

The revenue employees' unions now threaten to paralyse the land administration if the government does not withdraw it within a fortnight. They want the VROs to be accommodated in the revenue department itself by creating five posts of revenue inspectors for each Mandal, in the rank of junior assistants. There is no denying the fact that the Act aims to introduce reforms to end the agonising ordeal of people in the villages in resolving land disputes. As the intention is noble, the revenue staff should also cooperate. The employees cannot take the government over a barrel, whatever their grouse. The government may consult them before implementing the GO, perhaps, giving them some say. But, it must stand firm. The issue at stake is not only much-needed reform but also optimum utilisation of manpower. As per law, the government has every right and reason to stay the course.

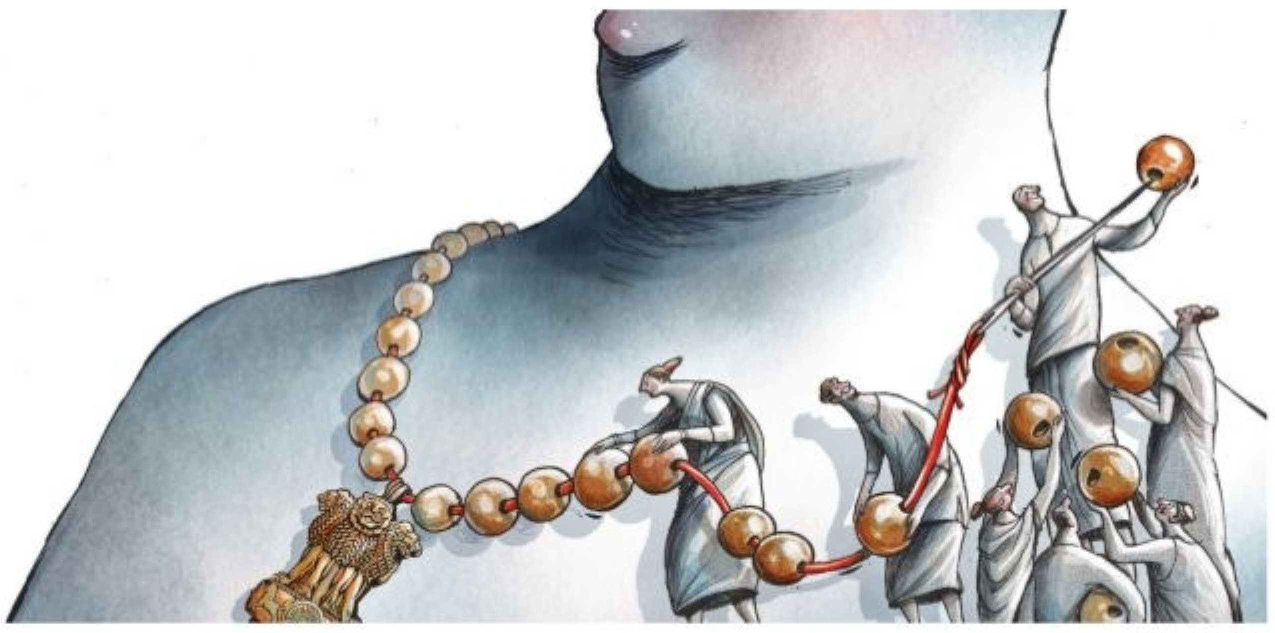
THE PRESIDENTIAL POLLS AND NAIDU'S NON-ELEVATION



SOUMYADIP SINHA

SUGATA SRINIVASARAJU

Senior journalist and author

We have a new president for our republic, and we will soon have a new vice-president. The Opposition has been unremarkable in its selection of candidates for the two top constitutional posts. It is true that they do not possess the required numbers; it was obvious that they were staring at defeat, but the game is not always about numbers. It is more about throwing up choices that could offer a shrewd moral contrast to the preferences of the ruling establishment. In this respect, the fatigue of the Opposition has been all too apparent. We have mostly witnessed staid meetings in sombre bungalows.

By contrast, the ruling coalition had numbers, their victory was somewhat foregone, but still, they strategised with some purpose and plan. They designed not only a victory but also a victorious narrative, especially with their nomination for president—a woman with tribal origins. It is their narrative, not numbers, that has wrecked the Opposition further. So much so that the Opposition's presidential candidate, Yashwant Sinha, neither got to campaign in his home state, Jharkhand, nor his former party's home state, West Bengal. There could be no greater irony.

Similarly, there is limited enthusiasm for the vice-presidential candidacy of Margaret Alva. When Mamata Banerjee said that her party would abstain from voting since it was not 'consulted', Alva said that this was not a time for 'whataboutery, egos or anger'. That's a correct line, but a chide does not help the situation. Unlike the president, who has a bigger electoral college, the vice-president is elected only by members of both houses of Parliament, and Banerjee's party offers solid numbers—23 in the Lok Sabha and 13 in the Rajya Sabha. If the Trinamool Congress sits out, the contest becomes even more lopsided.

The growing perception is that the Opposition does not know how to coordinate and does not really have anything or anybody to coordinate for—a personality, a purpose or a uniting principle. There are only trite ambitions of power visible, and this need not have been the case.

Anyway, a week from now, Vice-President Venkaiah Naidu will be saying his goodbyes, and Jagdeep Dhankhar will be getting ready to move in. It is surprising that Naidu was not given an elevation. There is nothing that he did in the last five years that disqualified him for the top constitutional job. He ran the Rajya Sabha reasonably well. He wrote his Op-Eds and tried to contribute to the discourse of the day. He appeared independent but not menacingly so, yet, he did not find favour with the government run by his erstwhile party and friends. When it became certain he'd depart, Congress leader Jairam Ramesh in fact, complimented Naidu by saying a 'good man exits' and added that 'he will be a very tough act to follow'.

Interestingly, of the 13 vice-presidents we have had, six of them were elevated as presidents when they completed their term, and there was only one vice-president, the first one, who served two terms in his role—S Radhakrishnan. This was because Rajendra Prasad, the first president, refused to leave the chair. At one point, Prasad did not want to finish his first term, but when it was actually drawing to a close, he found backers in the Congress party, independent of Jawaharlal Nehru. As a result, a sulking Radhakrishnan reluctantly continued to run the Rajya Sabha for five more years. Rajendra Prasad was president for the longest period, for 12 years, and this included an unelected term of two years between 1950 and 1952. For those two years, India did not have a vice-president and did not have a Rajya Sabha.

The first vice-president who was not elevated to the president was Gopal Swarup Pathak when his term ended in 1974. Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed was brought in. Pathak was a judge in pre-Independence India and later a law minister but was not affiliated with any political party. He was appointed when Indira Gandhi was prime minister, but she did not prefer him as president in 1974. He was replaced by B D Jatti. Venkaiah Naidu, strangely, suffers the fate of G S Pathak because the government that sponsored his candidature is still in power but has not preferred his elevation.

When other vice-presidents completed their terms, alternate party governments had come to power, and prime ministers had changed. When Jatti completed his term in 1979, Janata Party was in power with Morarji Desai at the helm. When Mohammad Hidayatullah finished his term in 1984, Indira Gandhi was prime minister, and Zail Singh was already in office. We often forget that Hidayatullah was also Chief Justice of India, and he also officiated briefly as president, and so did Jatti. When Krishna Kant, picked by the I K Gujral government, completed his term, Vajpayee was prime minister, and he preferred Abdul Kalam. Shekhawat, who was Atal Bihari Vajpayee's choice, similarly had Manmohan Singh as prime minister and Congress in power when he completed his term. Hamid Ansari, who was in the news lately, was a Congress nominee, but when he completed his term, Narendra Modi was in power, and Naidu replaced him.

Now that we are in the presidential poll season, there has been an interesting suggestion doing the rounds in some private circles in Karnataka, a state that was the ground zero of the Panchayat Raj experiment in the 1980s. It is being suggested that the electoral college to pick the president of India should include members of panchayats, which is the basic unit of our governance. At present, only legislators in state assemblies and parliamentarians elect the president. If logistics would make it difficult right away to include members from all three tiers of the Panchayat system, it could be initially restricted to members of 630 zilla panchayats across the nation.

That would certainly make it more inclusive, more democratic, more celebratory, less predictable and open to the real possibility of more independent candidates contesting—a reform to look forward to.

INDIAN ECONOMY'S $100 BILLION FDI TARGET

HINDOL SENGUPTA

Chief Economic Research Officer at Invest India, national investment promotion agency of GOI

For nearly a decade, year after year, India has hit record heights of foreign direct investment (FDI) inflow. The latest is the highest ever, $83.5 billion, in the last financial year. Where does India's FDI story go from here?

The big target it is about to breach is $100 billion in one twelve-month cycle. This would be a pivotal moment for the Indian economy. There are many things that this crossing of $100 billion would showcase. This essay is about understanding what hitting the $100 billion mark in FDI would mean for the Indian economy.

India is already among the top global recipients of FDI—in 2021, it had the seventh largest inflow. Hitting $100 billion will place it among the top three or four economies in the world in terms of FDI receipts. At the top of the table are the US and China with their manufacturing and technology prowess and wealthy and immense markets, respectively.

The rise of India to a $100 billion FDI status would be a marker for the transition the Indian economy is going through. Consider that for long, the country was considered a laggard in manufacturing but not anymore. With a structured approach to land and labour reforms and a push towards incentivizing manufacturing, estimates suggest that India's manufacturing exports could hit $1 trillion by 2028.

Sectors like pharmaceuticals (where India showed its manufacturing muscle by producing tens of millions of vaccine doses for use at home and abroad during the Covid-19 pandemic), automobiles (where the country is building major new global electric vehicle hubs), chemicals, and even mobile phones (where India has become the second largest manufacturer in the world) are leading the transformation of Indian manufacturing.

Crossing the $100 billion threshold would also showcase the strength of the Indian market and its capacity to absorb investment, goods and services. It would be a product of the $1.4 trillion that India is spending (till 2023) to overhaul its infrastructure and fast-track development.

FDI has been inadequately studied and understood in India. It is a byproduct of a range of ingredients coming together—physical, digital, and a range of 'softer' elements which engender confidence in the economy and its future.

Consider two things, India has seen a more than 15,000% rise in the number of startups in the last six years, and at the same time, more than 22,000 compliances have been removed. These two elements are, as is evident, interconnected.

As the roadblocks to entrepreneurship have reduced, more and more of what used to be called 'the animal spirits' of Indian enterprise are awakening. This, in turn, is creating a climate which is welcoming foreign direct investment into sectors as diverse as food processing to animal husbandry, renewable energy to robotics. One of the world's biggest robotics centres, for instance, is coming up in the Noida region of India's most populous state, Uttar Pradesh.

One of the world's biggest robotics centres ... is coming up in the Noida region of Uttar Pradesh

India's deep digitisation has ensured the creation of one of the world's biggest and most democratic digital architectures for the delivery of goods and services, including financial transactions (where India now beats in sheer volumes even the US and China). In 2021, India had thrice the number of real-time transactions compared to China and more than six times the numbers of the US, the UK, France, Canada and Germany put together.

India has provided some of the best policy incentives to create a global electric vehicle hub as one of the rare countries in the world which is on track to meet its climate change goals.

The latest FDI numbers show us that more countries are putting in more money in a wider set of sectors, which is going to a wider catchment area across India. Particularly interesting is the trickling in of FDI in diverse Indian districts, including in some districts which have deep developmental needs—the so-called 'aspirational districts'.

When India reaches $100 billion in FDI, it will be because of a combination of these factors. This is why when the $100 billion mark is crossed in FDI, it will be one more critical example of India's arrival on the world stage, not just as a rising power but, in many ways, a risen one.

The Enforcement Directorate has proved its mettle by investigating Sanjay Raut. Hyderabad gang rape bail

It is shocking that the 'minor' boys held for the gang rape of a girl in Hyderabad have recently been released on bail. This sends a message to so many misguided youth that it is possible to get away with anything. The media should strongly raise its voice against this and force the government to put them behind bars. This will send a firm message to all. Or are we waiting for another 'Nirbhaya' case to shake the consciousness of the nation?

Inflation is a problem

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman may claim in Parliament that inflation is under control, mock previous governments' double digit inflation and assert that GST on certain items won't affect the poor. The reality is that inflation is a problem for the middle class and the poor because it eats into their monthly budget. Sadly, while in power, leaders like Nirmala Sitharaman, Smriti Irani and others don't visit the market but while in the opposition, they talk about how ordinary people are suffering due to inflation.

Centre annuls condition for states to import coal

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE Centre has withdrawn the mandatory condition to import coal from abroad for 10% blending in thermal power plants of the country, allowing states and UTs to decide their own blending percentages. Punjab has already spent about ₹275 crore and Haryana about ₹1,650 crore after placing orders to buy imported coal. This government direction came in a letter issued on Monday by the Power Ministry to the governments in states and MDs of state-owned power generating companies (Gencos) and independent power producers (IPPs).

"The coal stock position has been reviewed. The position of state Gencos now varies significantly. Many states have stocks more than 50 per cent of normative levels whereas many others still have stocks near critical levels. It has been decided that now onwards, states/IPPs and Ministry of Coal may decide blending percentage after assessing the availability of domestic coal supplies,'' says the letter.

New direction

This government direction came in a letter issued on Monday by the Power Ministry to the state governments and MDs of state-owned power generating companies (Gencos) and independent power producers (IPPs)

Earlier, the All India Power Engineers Federation (AIPEF) had asked the Centre not to force states to buy imported coal due to its high cost. Last Month AIPEF chairman Shailendra Dubey had said that the federation had written to the Prime Minister urging him to intervene and issue effective directions to the Power Ministry to immediately withdraw the instructions given to state gencos to import 10% of coal. AIPEF spokesperson V K Gupta said Punjab had placed orders for 1.50 lakh tonnes of imported coal worth about ₹275 crore and Haryana had ordered 9 lakh tonne worth ₹1,650 crore.

Rlys among top 3 sectors with delayed projects

Over 100 infrastructure programmes started in different parts of country said to be running late

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

THE Indian Railways has emerged as one of the top three sectors with maximum delayed projects. Over 100 projects taken up for the execution in different parts of the country involving infrastructure are running late. The railways also has the maximum projects among the top 20 programmes with maximum delays in the country. These railway projects are delayed between five to 15 years from their original deadlines of completion.

According to the Infrastructure and Project Monitoring Division (IPMD) of the Ministry of Statistic and Programme Implementation, as many as 127 out of 211 railway projects are running late (from three to 15 years) owing to various technical reasons as well as issues related to law & order and land acquisition.

A senior official said the railways is one of the top three sectors with the maximum delayed projects in the country after the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways with 301 out of 843 projects and the Ministry of Petroleum with 91 out of 139 projects delayed.

In a written reply in the Rajya Sabha a couple of days ago, the IPMD stated that the Bengaluru-Satyamangalam new rail line, projected at an initial budget of ₹1,383 crore, had an initial date of completion in March 2002. However, it has overrun its anticipated date of completion to 2028.

The railways' the Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla 272 km long new line launched with an initial target of completion in 2002 but it hasmissed its deadline and is now anticipated to complete in 2023 with a new anticipated cost of ₹37,061 crore from its original cost of ₹2,500 crore. In the same way, the Kotipalli-Narsapur new rail line project in Andhra Pradesh was launched with a 2009 deadline but it is delayed with anticipated completion in 2027 with a revised cost of ₹2,120 crore from its original ₹1,045 crore.

Union Railway Minister Aswani Vaishnav said that the delay in sharing the cost by the state government is resulting in delay in the completion of railway projects taken up by the Centre.

FM puts up govt defence on price rise

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

FOR a second day in a row, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman countered the Opposition's remarks on price rise. During the question hour in Rajya Sabha, she reiterated that the Reserve Bank of India(RBI) is making efforts to address volatility in the currency and the inflation is still under control at 7% unlike the UPA regime when it touched double digits.

"Nobody is in denial of the price rise issue...We are at 7% with efforts. The Government and RBI are making efforts so that it can be brought below 6%," Sitharaman said. She also said blaming the government that it works for only for Adanis and Ambanis is a complete politicisation of the debate about upliftment of the poor people.

"We are trying to reach out to every poor of this country in this recovery process post Covid pandemic. Macroeconomic fundamentals of the country are strong," Sitharaman added.

Citing Bangladesh and Pakistan examples for their balance of payments (BoPs) crisis, Sitharaman stated that the fundamentals of India are quite strong. Economic distress should be looked at in a holistic way, she said. "The increase in average price of commodities, potato, onion, tomato between 2009 and 2013 was 164%, 324% and 160% respectively, today the prices of these commodities are held in control with the Government's measures," Sitharaman said. Meanwhile, she also stated that the Indian currency will find its own course and the Central Bank's steps are not so much to set the value of rupee but to address the volatility.

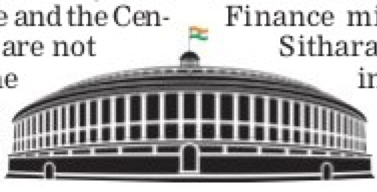
Don't blame Covid, Ukraine war: Oppn

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

THE Opposition Tuesday asked the government not to blame global economy, Covid-19 and Ukraine war as reasons behind the rise in prices of essential commodities and accept that it has failed to address the issues while the BJP said that inflation is beyond control of any country and despite that the Modi government has succeeded in keeping it under check.

The Rajya Sabha took up discussion on price rise and as Finance minister Nirmala Sitharam was responding, the Trinamool Congress MPs staged walkout, saying the minister was more interested in running down opposition states rather than looking for solutions to price rise.



The government should tax the rich, not the poor. It is tragic testimony that farmers are fighting to get better prices and consumers are weighed down by high prices despite record food grains

Elamaram Kareem, CPI(M) MP

Initiating the discussion, CPI (M) MP Elamaram Kareem said there has been a steep rise in prices of essential commodities since 2014 and imposition of GST on prepacked food items has further put burden on the poor.

"The government should tax the rich, not the poor. It is tragic testimony that farmers are fighting to get better prices and consumers are weighed down by high prices despite record food grains," he said.

TMC MP Derek O'Brien said imposition of GST on prepacked food items was not agreed by the Opposition in the GST Council.

"The unemployment is affecting the poor badly. On top of it, rupee depreciation has put pressure on the economy. We appeal to the government, first you have to acknowledge the problem. If you do not acknowledge the problem, how will you fix the problem?" he said.

'Tiranga on house will instil sense of patriotism'

PARVEZ SULTAN @New Delhi

URGING every citizen to hoist national flag in their houses around this independence during 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign August 13-15, Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday said that the programme gives a message to the world about the determination of people India, who would be working together for its growth and prosperity.

He said that the call for flag hoisting at each household under Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav (AKAM) is also to tell the younger generation about the sacrifices made by the freedom fighters during 90 years long struggle and instill a feeling of patriotism in them.

"This campaign — Har Ghar Tiranga (Tricolour on each household) is a message to the world that each Indian citizen will work unitedly for the next 25 years, according to assertion of people who drafted the Constitution and expectation of the Constitution, for the development, accomplishment, security and carrying forward the Indian culture," said Shah.

Modi meets Solih, India assures aid to Maldives

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

MALDIVES President Ibrahim Mohamed Solih met Prime Minister Narendra Modi in New Delhi on Tuesday. This is Solih's third visit to India since he became President in 2018. Maldives follows an India first policy and New Delhi, too, under the Neighbourhood First policy, is the first responder to any crisis in Male.

India has been investing heavily in infrastructure projects in Maldives. "Till now India has extended $2.8 billion worth of financial aid to Maldives, which includes Letters of Credit (LOC) and currency exchange. Despite the pandemic, there was 31 per cent increase in trade between India and Maldives in 2021 ($330 million) compared to 2020," said Munu Munawar, Indian High Commissioner to Male. Modi and Solih jointly launched the Greater Male Connectivity Project — the largest infrastructure project in Maldives. A 6.74-km-long bridge, connecting Male to Villingli, Gulhifahlu and Thilahfushi, will be built at a cost of $500. India is funding the project.

India-Maldives partnership is not only working in the interest of the citizens of both countries but is also becoming a source of peace, stability and prosperity for the region

PM Modi

Besides announcing an LOC worth $100 to ensure that all ongoing projects complete on time, Modi reviewed construction of 4,000 social housing units in Greater Male. The units are funded under Exim Bank of India's buyers credit finance of $227 million.

"India-Maldives partnership is not only working in the interest of the citizens of both countries but is also becoming a source of peace, stability and prosperity for the region. India has been and will continue to be the first responder in any need or crisis in Maldives," the PM said.

SC seeks Centre, CVC reply on extension given to ED director

PARVEZ SULTAN @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday sought response from the Centre and the Central Vigilance Commission (CVC) in 10 days on a batch of petitions challenging the extension given to the Enforcement Directorate (ED) director.

The amended law allowing such extensions up to five years was also challenged.

A bench comprising Chief Justice N V Ramana and Justices Krishna Murari and Hima Kohli issued notices to the Centre, CVC and the present ED Director, based on as many as eight petitions, including the ones filed by Congress leaders Randeep Singh Surjewala and Jaya Thakur and TMC's Saket Gokhale.

Lawyer M L Sharma claimed to have filed the first petition on the issue. "Issue notice to the central law agency. List after 10 days," the bench said. Senior advocate A M Singhvi, appearing for Surjewala, referred to the apex court judgments and said the fixed tenures are the 'hallmark of independence' and the fact that an incumbent may get an extension will 'demolish' the independence of the office.

Surjewala's plea has challenged the amendment made by the central government to the fundamental concept decided by the apex court in two judgments in the Vineet Narayan and the Common Cause cases which were on fixed tenure.

"...this amendment basically puts the incumbent on a fiduciary kind of pattern where one year, two year and three year extension at the discretion of the executive can be achieved. The amendments provide that you can get extensions piecemeal," he said. The fact that an officer can get the extension in itself demolishes the independence, he said.

Senior advocate Gopal Sankarnarayanan, appearing for one the petitioners, said the present ED Director would be completing four years in the post this year, and an ordinance was promulgated a few days before his retirement on November 18 last year extending his tenure by a year more.

The ICG in its statement said, "During the Working Level Meeting various issues such as maritime law enforcement, safety and security of life at sea, marine environment protection, illicit trafficking of drugs, weapons and humans at sea etc will be discussed. Defence reforms at standstill as govt sitting on selection of CDS

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

THE delay in appointment of the senior most military officer, Chief of Defence Staff (CDS), of the country has halted the reforms which have become necessary keeping the fast changing threat amidst the nebulous situation in the Indian neighbourhood. Experts feel the way things are it will take even more time to see the new CDS.

Lt Gen Vinod Bhatia (Retd) feels that appointment of General Bipin Rawat as the CDS was a step in the right direction and was necessary for integration of the armed forces. "Reforms initiated by Gen Rawat have come to a standstill. His charter included guiding Defence Preparedness which is not in focus."

Government announced appointment of Gen Bipin Rawat on 30 December 2019 and was mandated to head the newly created Department of Military Affairs (DMA) within the Ministry of Defence that has been tasked with coordinating, cooperating and synergising inter- and intra-services relations among the Army, the Navy and the Air Force. Also, the CDS is the Principal Military Adviser to the Defence Minister on issues of tri-services, as was suggested by the Kargil Review Committee in 1999. The three chiefs will continue to advise the Defence Minister on matters concerning their respective services.

The CDS has an important and challenging role of better integration of the civilian and military establishments at the highest level.

CDS initiated the process of reorganising the war fighting structure of the Armed Forces (Army, Air Force and Navy) into theatre commands with an aim to have the assets of all three forces under one commander responsible for all operations under his theatre.

Unfortunately General Bipin Rawat was killed in a helicopter crash on 8 December 2021 and since then the post has been lying vacant. The analysts feel that it's too long a time that the post has been kept vacant.

EMPTY SEATS

Over 84,600 posts are lying vacant in six paramilitary forces, including CRPF & BSF, while 1.12 lakh posts were filled up in last three years, Union Minister of State for Home Nityanand Rai told Lok Sabha on Tuesday.

Uddhav's Dighe card to stem Shinde

Thackeray appoints nephew of late strongman, Anand Dighe, as head of Sena's Thane unit

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

FORMER Maharashtra chief minister Uddhav Thackeray has appointed the nephew of late Thane strongman Anand Dighe, Kedar, as the head of the Shiv Sena's district unit to counter Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's influence and claim over the Dighe legacy.

After parting ways with Uddhav, Shinde has claimed that he represents the real Shiv Sena. The CM has been using portraits of Balasaheb Thackeray and Anand Dighe in his office and on posters and banners.

In his speeches too, Shinde seeks to convince people by saying he is the real heir to Balasaheb Thackeray and Dighe.

By appointing 35-year-old Kedar Dighe as the Thane chief, Uddhav has shown that the real heir of Shinde's mentor is with Shiv Sena. Dighe's name carries a lot of political weight in Thane and its adjoining areas. Dighe died in a road accident in 2001. He had worked extensively to help Shiv Sena grow in the district. After his death, Shinde worked for the Sena in Thane and Palghar areas.

Uddhav has also made Anita Birje as his deputy. She is a veteran Sainik and has not allowed Shinde to enter the Sena shakha in Thane. She has also worked with Anand Dighe.

Kedar said his uncle always remained loyal to the Sena. "Shiv Sena has a long history of struggle. The Shiv Sainik is ready to bounce back with vigor. I will work hard and bring glorious days back to Sena. The exit of Shinde will not have much impact," Kedar said.

Anand Dighe was a charismatic leader in Thane. Shinde often invokes Dighe's legacy to justify his revolt against Thackeray. By fielding Dighe's nephew opposite Shinde on the latter's home turf, Thackeray has tried to counter the narrative of the CM. Though Kedar is a political novice and has never played significant role in Shiv Sena so far, the Sena leadership wants to use him in the battle of perception with Shinde who is posing himself as a common worker fighting against Uddhav who is at the helm because of his relation to the founder.

A skilled organiser, Dighe built the Shiv Sena organisation in Thane in 1980s and '90s and dominated the politics of the district till he died. He encouraged a number of party workers from working-class or middle-class backgrounds, groomed them and built a strong second-rung leadership. Shinde was one of them. Dighe died in an accident as his vehicle crashed with a truck coming from another direction in 2001. His following among the Sena workers was such that when he passed away while being treated at Singhania Hospital in Thane, top Sena leaders including Uddhav had to be moved out of Thane to prevent any untoward incident as the irate workers went berserk.

THE TUSSLE FOR THANE

By appointing 35-year-old Kedar Dighe as Thane Shiv Sena chief, party president Uddhav Thackeray has tried to show that the real heir of Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's mentor, Anand Dighe, is with the Sena. The Dighe surname carries a lot of political weight in Thane and its adjoining areas. Anand Dighe, who had died in a road accident in 2001, had worked extensively to help the party grow in Thane district. After his death, Shinde worked for the Sena in Thane district and Palghar area. The party faced a huge vacuum in the region after Shinde's exit.

Fadnavis allows Pawar to retain 'Devgiri'

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE friendship between NCP leader Ajit Pawar and deputy CM Devendra Fadnavis has surfaced yet again, as the BJP leader has allowed Ajit to retain his favourite government bungalow – Devgiri.

Their friendship is widely known in political circles. Both had formed a transient government in 2019 that lasted barely 80 hours in Maharashtra.

After the formation of the Shinde government, Ajit Pawar has become the leader of Opposition and Fadnavis the Deputy CM – in a role reversal since the MVA government days.

As a deputy to Uddhav Thackeray, Ajit Pawar stayed at Devgiri bungalow at Malabar Hills. Devgiri is one of the spacious bungalows after the chief minister's Varsha residence at Malabar Hills.

The Devgiri bungalow is generally kept for the number two or a prominent person immediately after the CM. It was expected that Fadnavis as a Deputy CM would get this bungalow.

Sources say that after taking over as the LoP, Ajit Pawar had officially requested Fadnavis to retain the Devgiri bungalow. "Fadnavis has sacrificed Devgiri for the sake of friendship and requested CM Eknath Shinde to allot it to Ajit Pawar," said a person privy to the development.

After the formation of Maha Vikas Aghadi government, Fadnavis was the leader of Opposition. "Fadnavis had put up a request with Ajit Pawar, then Deputy CM, that he should be allocated the sea-facing Sagar bungalow at Malabar Hills. The reason was his daughter was studying in a school located at Malabar Hills, so convenience mattered. Thus, 'Sagar' went to Fadnavis," said the source.

Beekeeper's sweet taste of success

PM Modi's Mann Ki Baat this week featured the success story of Gorakhpur's bee-keeper Nimit Singh. The PM said, "Apiculture is full of opportunities and the youth is taking it as a profession. Nimit is one such example. He did BTech and his father is a doctor. But after completing studies, he decided to venture into honey production. For quality check he has set up a lab in Lucknow. Nimit ji is earning well from honey and beeswax and also imparting training to farmers." Nimit has set up his honey production unit in Barabanki. He learned basics of apiculture after visiting Sikkim, Kolkata and Jharkhand. In 2016, he started honey production with 50 boxes. Now his annual turnover is ₹2 crore and he employs 700 people.

'Letter bomb' to Shah works for Khatik

The 'letter bomb' hurled by junior Jal Shakti minister Dinesh Khatik seems to have worked. Khatik, who sent his 'resignation' letter to Home Minister Amit Shah, citing unfair treatment by officers because of him being an SC community member, had also levelled charges of corruption against the officials and had claimed that he had not been allocated any work. While he was mollified after a meeting with CM Yogi Adityanath and his cabinet minister Swatantra Dev Singh, the Jal Shakti minister has also swung into action to please Khatik. The principal secretary of the department has now allocated nine divisions each to Khatik and the other junior minister Ramkesh Nishad. Both will be responsible to oversee their respective divisions.

AMU removes books of Maududi, Qutub

The Aligarh Muslim University (AMU) has removed books of two authors from its syllabus after a group of writers and social workers complained to PM Narendra Modi about the 'radical teachings' of these books. The Islamic Studies department removed the books written by Pakistan's Maulana Abul Ala Maududi and Egypt's Syed Qutub. The complaint said Maududi in his books encourages prosecution of non-Muslims. "He also supports Islamisation of the world," the complaint said. The head of Islamic Studies department, Prof Mohammad Ismail confirmed that the books were removed after a decision taken by AMU board. He, however, said there was nothing radical in writings of these authors.

Health minister: No need to fear monkeypox; we are dealing with it

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

AS India recorded eighth monkeypox case, Union Health Minister Dr Mansukh Mandaviya on Tuesday allayed concerns in Parliament, saying the country is taking a step-by-step approach to tackle the viral disease and there is no need to fear the virus.

On Tuesday, two monkeypox cases were reported - one each from Kerala and Delhi - taking the total to eight cases in the country. Of the eight instances - five were from Kerala, all of whom had a history of travel from the UAE, and three from Delhi with no travel history. Delhi's first case, a 34-year-old man, was discharged from the hospital after he recovered on Tuesday. India on Monday confirmed its first monkeypox death, the first in Asia, of a 22-year-old man who had returned from the UAE.

He said that when the first case in India was reported from Kerala on July 14, the Centre on May 1 had given guidelines to all states. "We have written to the governments at the international level that the screening report of the travellers should also be sent to us," the minister said.

India is developing testing kits and vaccines for monkeypox. The Indian Council of Medical Research has isolated the monkeypox virus. An expression of interest has been floated for research institutions, vaccine and diagnostic kits manufacturers to take the virus strain for further research to develop a vaccine, he said

"Till date, eight cases of the disease have been detected, of which five have foreign travel history."

With the disease spreading only through close contacts, he said no specific community is at risk, and the government has taken up steps to create awareness about common symptoms, reporting of suspected cases and prevention.

The Centre has set up a task force led by NITI Aayog member (health) Dr VK Paul to monitor monkeypox. "Based on its observations, we will assess and study further action to be taken. If the Kerala government needs help from the Centre, it will be given. Also, an expert central government team is guiding the state government," he said.

CULPABLE HOMICIDE

Four directors of MP hospital booked

ANURAAG SINGH @ Bhopal

JABALPUR district Chief Medical and Health Officer, Dr Ratnesh Kuraria, and Fire Safety Officer Kushagra Thakur were on Tuesday suspended over Monday's hospital blaze, on the order of CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan. All four directors of New Life Multi Specialty Hospital were booked for culpable homicide not amounting to murder, a day after eight people died in a huge fire at the hospital.

"The four directors — Dr Nishant Gupta, Dr Suresh Patel, Dr Sanjay Patel and Dr Santosh Soni — have been booked under IPC sections which pertain to culpable homicide not amounting to murder and attempted culpable homicide not amounting to murder. The hospital manager, who is also accused in the case lodged at Vijay Nagar police station, has been arrested," MP home minister Narottam Mishra said.

Major lapses have been found at the hospital, Mishra said. "The fire NOC issued by the local municipal corporation had expired. All those involved in the lapses, including officials, will be probed by a high-level committee headed by the Jabalpur divisional commissioner," he added.

The chief medical and health officer cancelled the registration and licence of the hospital with immediate effect. According to sources, the hospital had managed to get licence/ registration from the health department without submitting a building completion certificate.

Mamata to attend Niti Aayog meeting to be chaired by PM

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

AFTER skipping last year's Niti Aayog meeting, held virtually, West Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee is likely to attend the event to be chaired by PM Narendra Modi on August 7 in New Delhi.

Mamata will be meeting Modi at a time when one of her cabinet ministers, Partha Chatterjee, is in ED custody for his alleged involvement in the school recruitment scam.

The CM is expected to visit Delhi before the scheduled event to hold meetings with opposition parties.

She did not attend the event last year saying it led to no positive impact for the states.

The Niti Ayog meeting between Modi and the CMs is being held at a time when non-BJP ruled states have accused the Centre of non-payment of GST dues and flouting federal norms. The meeting is due a day after the vice presidential election in which NDA's candidate is former West Bengal Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar. The opposition candidate is Margaret Alva. Breaking ranks with opposition, the Trinamool Congress has said it will abstain from voting, alleging the TMC was not kept in the loop over Alva's selection.

"The CM may also take up the 'economic blockade which the Centre has imposed' by not clearing the fund meant for the 100-day national rural job scheme. She has written to the PM many times requesting him to clear the dues, but the Centre has not yet responded," said an official.

Political experts say Mamata will talk to Opposition leaders on the need for unity in the Lok Sabha poll. "After deciding to abstain from voting in vice presidential elections, it is to be seen whether Mamata rebuilds bridges with the Congress and a few other opposition leaders,'' said an analyst.

"Mamata's decision to attend the meeting is significant in the backdrop of Partha's arrest,'' said a TMC leader.

'No idea about cash in my flats'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

SPEAKING out for the first time in public on the recovery of cash ₹49.8 crore from her two apartments, Partha Chatterjee's aide Arpita Mukherjee claimed on Tuesday that the money was not hers and it was kept in her absence and without her knowledge.

Two days ago, Chatterjee said he didn't have any money when asked whether the seized cash belonged to him.

Asked from where the huge cash came to her flats, Arpita, while being taken to ESI hospital, Joka for a medical examination with Chatterjee, said, "The money was not mine. It was kept in my places when I was not present there. The money was brought there without my knowledge."

Meanwhile, the ED conducted searches at five places, including three flats in south Kolkata and two outlets owned by Arpita. "The raids were conducted at Baranagar, Patuli, Panditiya Road and Lake Gardens. We got to know about them while checking the papers recovered from their residences," said an official. The two will be produced in a special PMLA court on Wednesday. "We will seek further custody," said the official.

J'Khand MLA cites old ties; Sarma calls FIR 'fake'

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

SOON after Himanta Biswa Sarma slammed Kumar Jaimangal for dragging his name in the alleged horse trading of Jharkhand Congress legislators, the Jharkhand Congress MLA on Tuesday said that he had known the Assam Chief Minister for last 20 years.

Images of Jaimangal meeting Himanta on July 26 had gone viral on social media. Kumar Jaimangal alias Anup Singh said Himanta had arranged his meeting with Union Coal Minister Pralhad Joshi.

Jaimangal claimed that he had kept the state Congress leadership in the loop about his meeting with Himanta and Joshi. "I had already informed Jharkhand Congress in-charge Avinash Pandey and Hemant Soren before meeting Pralhad Joshi and Himanta Biswa Sarma in New Delhi," he claimed.

"If saving the party or protecting the mandate of people is a crime, then I am guilty," said Jaimangal, adding the BJP might try to silence him with CBI and ED probes.

He said he had met Joshi for trade union-related work, though he evaded questions on why he approached Sarma.

Meanwhile, a complaint was filed against Jaimangal by Deepak Rao Singh at Ranchi for allegedly hatching conspiracy against the three arrested MLAs — Irfan Ansari, Naman Bixal Kongari and Rajesh Kacchap. On the basis of an FIR by Jaimangal on Sunday, the three MLAs were arrested by West Bengal police with cash. In his FIR, Jaimangal had claimed the three MLAs had asked him to join them and meet Himanta together in Guwahati. He had alleged that they lured him with cash and ministerial berth and sought his support to pull down the JMM-Congress government in Jharkhand.

Meanwhile, Himanta termed the FIR lodged by Jaimangal as "fake". "Fake FIR in #Jharkhand. The so-called FIR looks like @INCIndia asking Ottavio Quattrocchi to file a case against Bofors," he tweeted, reacting to his ministerial colleague Pijush Hazarika's comment.

Hazarika shared photos on Twitter on Tuesday, showing Sarma and Singh together, purportedly in Delhi. The photographs suggest the two are no strangers to each other.

"Sharing some FACTS about the baseless allegations by Jharkhand @INCIndia MLA @KumarJaimangal. Jharkhand Cong MLA @KumarJaimangal made a fake allegation that the 3 arrested MLAs had lured him to meet Hon'ble CM Dr.@himantabiswa sir," Hazarika tweeted.

After his name cropped up, Sarma had on Sunday said he had no idea why Singh had to file the police complaint. "The Congress MLAs and leaders meet me in Guwahati and Delhi. What is wrong in that? Congress is my old party," he had said, adding, "I have known the person, who lodged the FIR, for 20 years. So, he doesn't need a middleman to come to me."

RAID ON FIRM WHERE CASH WAS DELIVERED

KOLKATA: CID sleuths probing the case in which three Congress MLAs from Jharkhand were arrested recovered ₹3 lakh in cash from the office of a share trading company in Kolkata. The cash found from the vehicle was apparently taken to the MLAs from the firm's office. "A bag containing the sum recovered from the MLAs was handed over to Kumar Pratik, an aide of theirs, who was also held, in the share trading office. Pratik had taken the cash to the hotel on Sudder Street in Kolkata," said an official.

In 'dry' Gujarat, booze, drugs taking centre stage ahead of Assembly polls

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

AS political parties gear up to fight the upcoming Assembly polls in the state, alcohol and drugs consumption is snowballing into a major issue.

The Gujarat Congress staged a 'dharna' on Tuesday on the issue of liquor ban.

The recent hooch tragedy in the BJP-ruled state, wherein 50 people died and many fell ill after consuming spurious liquor, has brought embarrassment to the state leadership.

Kejriwal latched on to the issue in his last two public addresses in the state. "People of Gujarat have two options — they will get spurious liquor if they vote for them (BJP) or they will get employment if they vote for us," he said on Monday. He also visited the kin of the victims of the hooch tragedy and sought compensation for them.

Congress leaders have also started targeting the BJP on the illicit trade.

Rahul Gandhi recently posted on social media figures of three drug recoveries allegedly worth around ₹22,000 crore at Mundra port since September 2021, and questioned the law and order situation.

The Opposition's attacks, and public anger over the menace, have prompted BJP to get into a damage control mode. Its state spokesperson Yamal Vyas said, "Gujarat ATS is doing a good job. Along with the Coast Guard, they have filed over 400 cases under the NDPS Act in six months. When Gujarat Police is doing such good work, what is the problem of Congress?"

AAP RELEASES FIRST LIST OF 10 CANDIDATES

The AAP on Tuesday announced its first list of 10 candidates for Gujarat Assembly poll to be held in December. While Sagar Rabari has got Bechraji ticket, Arjun Rathwa will contest from Chhota Udaipur and Vashram Sagathia has got Rajkot Rural seat. Ram Dhaduk, Rajendra Solanki and Bhema Chaudhary will fight from Kamrej (Surat), Bardoli and Deodar, respectively.

SIX senior officers in Pakistan Army helicopter on relief mission feared crashed in Balochistan province

WATCHING AL-QAIDA CHIEF TO TAKE HIM OUT

US built a model of the house where al-Zawahiri was holed out, knew he was partial to sitting on the balcony

WASHINGTON

AS the sun was rising in Kabul on Sunday, two Hellfire missiles fired by a US drone ended Ayman al-Zawahiri's decade-long reign as the leader of al-Qaida. The seeds of the audacious counterterrorism operation had been planted over many months.

US officials had built a scale model of the safe house where al-Zawahiri had been located, and brought it into the White House Situation Room to show President Joe Biden. They knew al-Zawahiri was partial to sitting on the home's balcony.

They had painstakingly constructed "a pattern of life," as one official put it. They were confident he was on the balcony when the missiles flew, officials said.

But the lead on his whereabouts was only the first step. Confirming al-Zawahiri's identity, devising a strike in a crowded city that wouldn't recklessly endanger civilians, and ensuring the operation wouldn't set back other US priorities took months to fall into place. A senior US administration official, speaking on the condition of anonymity said, al-Zawahiri was identified on multiple occasions, for sustained periods of time on the balcony where he died. The official said multiple streams of intelligence convinced US analysts of his presence, having eliminated all reasonable options other than his being there. On July 1 in the White House Situation Room, Biden was briefed on the proposed strike by his national security aides. It was at that meeting, the official said, that Biden viewed the model of the safe house and peppered advisers with questions about their conclusion that al-Zawahiri was hiding there. Biden, the official said. AP

Pelosi in Taiwan, China announces retaliatory drills

TAIPEI

US House Speaker Nancy Pelosi arrived in Taiwan on Tuesday, becoming the highest-ranking American official in 25 years to visit the island claimed by China, which immediately retaliated saying it would conduct military drills off the island's waters.

In a statement issued just after her arrival, Pelosi said her visit "honours America's unwavering commitment to supporting Taiwan's vibrant democracy." China's People's Liberation Army said the manoeuvers would take place in the waters and skies near Taiwan and include the firing of long-range ammunition in the Taiwan Strait. "This action is a solemn deterrent against the recent major escalation of the negative actions of the United States on the Taiwan issue, and a serious warning to the Taiwan independence forces seeking independence." China's official Xinhua News said the army planned to conduct live-fire drills from August 4 to 7 across multiple locations.

Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi said Washington's betrayal "on the Taiwan issue is bankrupting its national credibility." "Some American politicians are playing with fire," Wang in a statement said. "This will definitely not have a good outcome," he added.

In the US, 26 Republican lawmakers issued a statement of rare bipartisan support for the Democratic speaker. The statement called trips by members of Congress to Taiwan routine.

Pelosi has sought for decades to focus attention on Chinese democracy movements. She went to Tiananmen Square in 1991, two years after China crushed a wave of democracy protests. Barricades were erected outside the Grand Hyatt Hotel in Taipei where she is scheduled to stay. Journalists and onlookers thronged the streets just outside and pressed against the hotel's lobby windows as they awaited Pelosi's motorcade. Two buildings in the capital lit up with words of welcome which said "Welcome to Taiwan, Speaker Pelosi." AP

Uber likely to sell its 7.8% stake in Zomato

Block deal offer is pegged at nearly ₹2,938 crore or $373 million with a price range of ₹48-54 per share, says source

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

RIDE-HAILING giant Uber is likely to sell its 7.8% stake in food delivery firm Zomato on Wednesday via a block deal, according to a source familiar with the development.

The block deal offer is pegged at nearly ₹2,938 crore or $373 million with a price range of ₹48-54 per share. Uber is likely to put 61.2 crore total outstanding shares on the block, which translates to 7.8% stake in Zomato.

According to the source, Bank of America Securities is the bookrunner for the deal.

The rumours about the stake sale came on the day Uber Technologies Inc in its Q2CY2022 results said that it lost $245 million on its Zomato investment during the quarter and $707 million in the first half of the year. Uber's losses in the June ending quarter came in at $2.6 billion but it turned cash flow positive for the first time.

Uber's $1.7 billion loss was from investments and a reevaluation of stakes in Zomato, Aurora and Grab, the company said. To note, Zomato's market capitalization has fallen from ₹98,849 crore on its listing day to ₹43,777 crore on Tuesday.

Uber had sold Uber Eats, its food delivery business, in India in an all-stock transaction to Zomato in 2020 for a 9.99% stake after competing fiercely with Swiggy and Zomato for years. Currently, Uber holds 7.78% in Zomato and is its second largest stakeholder, only after Info Edge (India) which owns over 15% stake in the company.

Query sent to Uber on the stake sale was not answered till the time this story was published. Zomato shares closed at ₹56 on the BSE on Tuesday as the stock gained 20% during the trading session- its best single-day rally in the very long time. The increased demand for the stock came after the company reported narrowing its net losses by 48% to ₹186 crore in the June quarter. Zomato has said it aims to reach EBIDTA breakeven by the Q4 of next year.

HONG KONG

JUNE RETAIL SALES DECLINE AT A SLOWER PACE

Hong Kong's retail sales in June fell at a slower pace than the previous month, official data released on Tuesday showed, and the government plans more measures, including consumption vouchers, to provide support to the sector. The value of retail sales in June were HK$27.7 billion ($3.53 billion), down 1.2% from a year earlier and less than a revised 1.6% drop in May, according to the data. For the first half of 2022, the total retail sales value decreased by 2.6% compared with the same period last year. The government said retail sales performance improved in the second quarter but the momentum softened in the latter part of the period amid an increased number of local COVID-19 cases and a rise in interest rates. In volume terms, retail sales in June fell 4.1% from a year earlier, compared with a revised 4.8% decline in May. For the first six months of the year, the volume decreased 5.6% from the year ago period. The former British colony has some of the strictest coronavirus regulations in the world outside mainland China, which is pursuing a "dynamic zero COVID" strategy of eradicating outbreaks as soon as they occur, with businesses hit hard by widespread closures.

TAIWAN

SEMICONDUCTOR STOCKS UNDER PRESSURE

Semiconductor stocks fell globally on Tuesday as an expected visit by U.S. House of Representatives Speaker Nancy Pelosi to Taiwan, which China claims as its territory, fueled a fresh escalation in tensions between Washington and Beijing. China views the visit by Pelosi, second in the line of succession to the US presidency and a long-time critic of China, as sending an encouraging signal to the pro-independence camp in Taiwan and has repeatedly warned against it. Taiwan is home to the world's biggest manufacturer of semiconductors on contract, Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co Ltd (TSMC). Shares of the company closed down 2.4%, while peer United Microelectronics Corp (UMC) fell 3%. Taiwanese stocks dropped 1.6%, marking their biggest percentage decline in three weeks, while stocks in China posted their biggest fall in more than two months as mounting tensions unsettled Asian financial markets. Semiconductor stocks globally felt the heat. Germany's Infineon declined 2.3%, while Dutch firms ASML, ASMI and BESI fell between 3% and 4%. U.S. chip stocks such as Nvidia Corp, Intel Corp, Qualcomm and Micron Technology Inc dipped more than 1% each in trading before the bell.

JAPAN

YEN SET FOR BIGGEST RUN OF GAINS

The yen was on track for its biggest run of gains since the depths of the coronavirus crisis in March 2020, as rising U.S.-China tensions over Taiwan and deepening worries about a global economic slowdown boosted the appeal of safe-haven assets. Against the dollar, the Japanese currency was on track for a fifth consecutive session of gains on Tuesday, taking its cumulative increase to nearly 4.5% in five trading sessions. In early London trading, the currency was up 0.6% at 130.78 yen, just below a high of 130.40 yen, a level last seen in early June. Jitters about the impact of an impending visit to Taiwan by U.S. House of Representatives Speaker Nancy Pelosi weighed on stocks and sent investors scurrying into US Treasuries. The benchmark 10-year Treasury yield fell to 2.516%, its lowest since April, further narrowing the gap between ten-year U.S. debt and equivalent Japanese bonds to 236 bps, the lowest since early April. The US economy shrank for a second straight quarter, data released last week showed, intensifying an ongoing debate over whether the country is, or will soon be, in recession, with traders keenly watching for US jobs data on Friday.

India's trade deficit widens to $31 bn in July

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

INDIA'S trade deficit in July 2022 widened to $31.02 billion from $26.18 billion in June due to inflated commodity prices, according to the data released by the Commerce ministry on Tuesday.

Trade deficit in the same month last year (2021) stood at $10.63 billion. In the April-July 2022 period, trade deficit crossed $100 billion, almost 2.5 times the trade deficit in the same period last year. While merchandise exports in July 2022 remained flat at $35.24 billion ($35.51 billion in July 2021), merchandise import in July 2022 was $66.26 billion, a rise of 43.59% over $46.15 billion in July 2021.

Petroleum and coal were the major contributors to India's import in July. India imported petroleum products of $21.13 billion in July, which is 70% higher than last year. Similarly, the coal imports witnessed a spike by 164% to $5.18 billion in July.

"Contrary to our expectations, the merchandise trade deficit widened to $31 billion in July 2022, with a sequential decline in exports and flattish imports. On a Year-on-Year (YoY) basis, exports dipped, while imports recorded a sharp rise in July 2022 on the back of higher commodity prices. The $20 billion YoY rise in imports was led by petroleum products and coal, negating the relief offered by a fall in gold imports. Worryingly, merchandise imports were almost twice as high as merchandise exports in July 2022," said Aditi Nayar, chief economist ICRA.

Merchandise imports in April-July 2022-23 was $256.43 billion with a rise of 48.12% over $ 173.12 billion in April -July 2021-22. The value of non-petroleum imports was $45.13 billion in July 2022 with a positive growth of 33.74% over non-petroleum imports of $33.74 billion in July 2021.

The cumulative value of non-petroleum imports in April-July 2022-23 was $174.39 billion, showing an increase of 34.35% as against non-oil imports of $129.81 billion in April -July 2021-22.

Telcos may raise tariffs for 4G services in second half to ensure 5G adoption

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

TELECOM operators are expected to raise tariffs for 4G services in the second half of the current fiscal to ensure mass adoption of 5G services.

As per the industry insiders, mass 5G rollout may happen only next fiscal as fiberisation (a pre-requisite for effective 5G deployment) is feeble now, and telcos are required to launch commercial services in at least one city of each circle by the end of the first year of acquiring the licence, as per rollout obligations.

Thus, the full benefit of tariff hikes and 5G launch will be realised in fiscal 2024. "Given the sizeable investments towards spectrum acquisition, we believe telcos will charge differential pricing for 5G services. Indeed, adoption of 5G services will hinge on the extent of premium over 4G tariffs," said Manish Gupta, senior director, CRISIL Ratings.

"In a bid to ensure mass adoption of 5G, telcos may raise tariffs for 4G services, despite the two rounds of tariff hikes affected in December 2019 and November 2021, respectively. We expect another tariff hike for 4G services in the second half." Emkay Emkay Global Financial's research report said it believes spectrum related payout and Adani's potential entry in the business-to-consumer (B2C) space is now behind and focus will shift towards tariff hike quantum and timeline. "We have baked in 15% tariff hike in our assumption along with spectrum usage charge (SUC) savings of ₹8 billion and ₹20 billion in FY24 and FY25, respectively, as we assume saving would fully reflect once fresh spectrum is put to use," reads the report.

The Department of Telecommunication (DoT) mopped up a whopping ₹1,50,173 crore in the first-ever 5G spectrum auction, selling 71% of the total spectrum put up for sale. Cash-rich Reliance Jio spent ₹88,078 crore to acquire spectrum, Bharti Airtel invested ₹43,084 crore, while Vodafone Idea put in ₹18,799 crore to acquire spectrum.

However, experts are of the view that the additional spectrum purchased in this auction could elevate the sector's debt to ₹6.1 lakh crore.

5G spectrum for private use: Adani

NEW DELHI: Gautam Adani-led Adani Group on Tuesday said the ₹212 crore worth of spectrum it has bought in a millimetre wave band will be used to create a private network to support its businesses and data centres. Adani Data Networks Ltd (ADNL), a unit of Adani Enterprises, acquired the right to use 400MHz of spectrum in the 26GHz millimetre wave band for 20 years. It has bought less than 1% of the spectrums sold in the auction. The government has received bids for₹1.5 lakh crore. ENS

E-invoice must for turnover above ₹10 cr from Oct 2

NEW DELHI: In a bid to increase tax base and improve compliance measures, the government has made it mandatory for businesses with the yearly turnover of ₹10 crore or more to generate e-invoices for business-to-business (B2B) transactions from October 1. As per the current rules, only those businesses with annual turnover of ₹20 crore and above are required to generate e-invoices. The Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) on August 1 issued the notification on lowering of e-invoice threshold. The government has been extending the e-invoice rule in a gradual manner. ENS

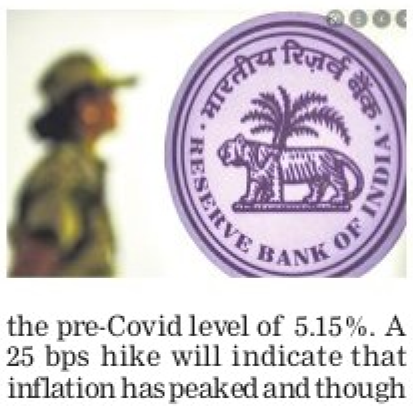
RBI may go for less aggressive rate hike: Analysts

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AS the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) of the RBI meets for three days from today, there's largely a sense prevailing that with inflation fears slowly coming off, the same might be visible in a less than aggressive rate hike by the central bank.

Many experts now believe that the RBI is more likely to go for a 25-35 basis points increase in policy rate than a 50 bps hike.

"We do expect the RBI to go for a 25 bps hike in repo rate this time. This will bring it to the pre-Covid level of 5.15%. A 25 bps hike will indicate that inflation has peaked and though high will not go up significantly," says Madan Sabnavis, chief economist of Bank of Baroda.



He added that any aggressive move like hiking the rate by 50 bps will indicate that the inflation peak has not yet been achieved and hence that can send a different signal to the market.

Retail inflation in June eased to 7.01% from 7.79% in April this year. Some experts believe that the effect of recent drop in commodity prices like Copper, steel and aluminium could be seen in July inflation numbers. Siddhartha Sanyal, Chief Economist & Head of Research, Bandhan Bank, told TNIE that they expect a 35-40 bps rate hike which will make it 125 basis points increase in a span of three months, the fastest rate hike in recent years.

Sanyal believes that since the effect of monetary policy comes with a lag, it is important to factor in the inflation in the second half of the year. He feels the RBI's inflation projection of 6.7% in the second half of 2022-23 is less likely to see any upward surprises.

However, some analysts feel that despite falling inflation, the RBI would have to keep in sync with global monetary policy while reacting to domestic macroeconomic situations. The US Fed has so far increased policy rates 225 basis points in 2022, and analysts feel it has yet not finished. These analysts feel a 50 bps hike by RBI could be a possibility.

FMCG major ITC exits lifestyle retail business

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FMCG major ITC on Tuesday announced it has exited its lifestyle retailing business.

The decision was made after a strategic review of its business portfolio, the company said in a regulatory filing.

The company in its annual report released earlier had said that following a strategic review of the business portfolio a few years ago, it has restructured the Lifestyle Retailing Business during the year.

"At the same time, the product portfolio has been strengthened in alignment with new opportunities and enterprise strengths with sharper focus on fortifying the core, addressing adjacencies through world-class mother brands and building categories of the future to power growth," ITC chairman Sanjiv Puri had said in the report. ITC's Lifestyle Retailing Business has a nationwide presence through its Wills Lifestyle chain of exclusive specialty stores. Wills Lifestyle is available in 90 exclusive stores in 40 cities and across more than 500 'shop-in-shops' in departmental stores and multi-brand outlets. The diversified conglomerate on Monday reported a 33.97% year-on-year increase in consolidated net profit at ₹4,389.76 crore in the June quarter as compared to ₹3,276.48 crore net profit in the same quarter a year ago.

Market rises marginally; US-China tension over Taiwan adds to volatility

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

AMID a volatile session, benchmark indices Sensex and Nifty gained marginally on Tuesday.

This is the fifth straight session when the two indices closed in green on the back of positive global cues, strong Q1 earnings and foreign fund inflows.

The 30-share index Sensex ended 20.86 points higher at 58,136.36. During the day, it hit a high of 58,328.41 and a low of 57,744.70. The broader Nifty ended at 17,345.45, up 5.40 points. Indian and global markets are expected to remain highly volatile even as at present bulls are seen in a dominant position. A lot will depend on the US- China tension over US House Speaker Nancy Pelosi's expected visit to Taiwan and on the outcome of the RBI's monetary policy committee (MPC) meeting. Analysts at large anticipate the RBI to hike repo rate by 35-50 bps.

"We feel the mounting US-China tensions over Taiwan could emerge as the main event risk in the near term. India VIX, which measures the expected volatility in the market too spiked 6.5% to 18.64 levels. Technically speaking, the immediate support for Nifty is seen at 17121 and below the same, expect the index to quickly slip towards 16750-16800 zone," said Prashanth Tapse - Research Analyst, Senior VP (Research), Mehta Equities Ltd. Pelosi's arrival in Taiwan has already impacted Asian equity market with the Hang Seng fell 2.36% while China's Shanghai Composite plunged 2.26%. Japan's Nikkei 225 was down by 1.42%. Shrikant Chouhan, Head of Equity Research (Retail), Kotak Securities Ltd, said that bulls looked tired today, as at one point Sensex was down more than 300 points, but managed to reverse the trend at close.

SPICEJET SETTLES AAI'S EXISTING DUES

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PRIVATE carrier SpiceJet on Tuesday said it has entered into a full and final settlement with the Airports Authority of India (AAI) and has cleared all outstanding principal dues of the airport operator.

With this, cash-starved SpiceJet claims it will no longer remain on 'cash and carry' at AAI-run airports across the country and it would revert to advance payment mechanism for daily flight operations. "SpiceJet's ability to clear the pending dues reflects the airline's improved cash flow in recent times," said the airline in a statement. It added that AAI will release SpiceJet's ₹50 crore bank guarantee following the airline clearing all its principal dues. This will result in additional liquidity for the airline. This settlement comes after aviation regulator DGCA had last month pulled SpiceJet over its ability to maintain its aircraft. In a show cause notice issued on July 6 to Spicejet over multiple technical glitches on its flights mid air, DGCA had observed, "Financial assessment carried out by DGCA in September 2021 has revealed that the airline is operating on 'cash and carry' (model) and suppliers/approved vendors are not being paid on a regular basis leading to shortage of spares and frequent invoking of MELs (minimum equipment lists)."

Following this, the DGCA last week restricted SpiceJet's flights to 50% of departures approved under the summer schedule. This step has had not any impact on the operations of the airline as it is operating around 300 flights per day that translate to roughly 50% of its filed 4,192 flights/week for the summer schedule.

Despite legal hassles, Chinese mobile cos rule Indian market

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

DESPITE checks by the Indian agencies on Chinese mobile companies, these mobile makers still rule the Indian mobile market.

According to the latest research from Counterpoint's Market Monitor service, four Chinese brands find their place in the top five spots.

Xiaomi, which was accused of tax evasion by the Indian agencies, held the biggest market pie in the second quarter of 2022, with a 19% shipment share. It is closely followed by South Korean tech-giant Samsung, then comes Chinese mobile makers Vivo with 17% market share, realme 16% market share and Oppo held 11% market share. "They (Chinese companies) might have done something wrong. But, everything, at the end of the day, is punishable and will be settled by paying some fine. Hypothetically, if these companies have done something very bad, then the government will have to stop them. But the big question is who will fill the gap," said Faisal Kawoosa, founder and chief analyst at Techarc.

Recently the Enforcement Directorate (ED) raided almost every top Chinese mobile brand including Xiaomi, Oppo, Vivo and Huawei. The ED seized over ₹5,551 crore from Xiaomi on account of tax evasion. The Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (DRI) has detected customs duty evasion of ₹4,389 crore by Oppo India. The ED raided at least 44 places across India in a money-laundering investigation against Chinese smartphone manufacturer Vivo and related firms. However, these raids barely had any impact on these mobile makers, as they still grab around 80% of the Indian market share. The reason, experts cite, is that Indian buyers don't have any option available to them other than Samsung or Nokia.

BharatPe's Koladiya quits months after Grover's exit

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

FIVE months after the exit of BharatPe co-founder Ashneer Grover, another co-founder Bhavik Koladiya has quit the fintech unicorn.

Though it is said that Koladiya's contract has not been renewed, BharatPe said in a statement that his contract tenure ended on July 31, 2022, and he expressed his desire to spend time on other assignments outside the company.

"Bhavik Koladiya has been associated with BharatPe as an independent consultant, guiding our product and technology teams. ..Bhavik has been one of our biggest advocates and has been an integral part of our journey in becoming one of India's largest fintech companies," the company said.

BRUM'S DAY

10 India veteran padder A Sharath Kamal won his 10th medal at the Commonwealth Games on Tuesday. Sharath, who's taking part in the marquee event for the fifth time in his career, has won a total of five gold, two silver and three bronze medals.

You have to believe in yourself because no one else can believe in you. I wanted to do well this year. It's not on God's watch, it's on my watch. Whatever time I put together, I will work my way back up to the top. –Elaine Thompson-Herah, Tokyo 2020 Olympic champion on finishing 3rd at world championships

Men paddlers top table to silence doubters

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

THERE was quite a commotion before the departure of the India table tennis team for the Commonwealth Games. The build-up was not ideal either. There was uncertainty as to who would represent the team in Birmingham. But when the men's team defended its title on Tuesday, it was cathartic for the players and more so for the coach. There was pressure, especially after the women's team crashed out.

The team comprising of A Sharath Kamal, G Sathiyan, Harmeet Desai and Sanil Shetty beat Singapore 3-1 in the final. The doubles pair of Sathiyan and Harmeet beat Yong Izaac Quek and Yew En Koen Pang 13-11, 11-7, 11-5, while Sharath lost his match against Zhe Yu Clarence Chew 11-7, 12-14, 11-3, 11-9. Harmeet sealed the contest with a 3-0 victory over Chew after Sathiyan made it 2-1 in the five-match competition.

Coach S Raman was a relived man. He was under the scanner ever since he was named the coach and the teams for the CWG were announced. The selection of the court-appointed Committee of Administrators was questioned and dragged to the court too. Sports can be cruel. But at times it can be a great leveler. The men's team gave a fitting reply to all those who were doubting them. The story so far may not be as good as Gold Coast, where the team ended with eight medals including three gold, but the paddlers are expected to do well in the remaining (individual and doubles) events.

In a brief conversation minutes after the victory, Raman talked about the players' commitment. "They were exceptional," he said. Raman was under pressure after the selection drama before the Games. Even then he was confident the teams they had picked were the best. Raman had taken it in his stride. "This is nothing new," he said. "Even as a player, I was under pressure and we have to deal with it. I would say it is part of sport." There were questions raised about the composition of the teams too, and of course, the spirit within.

Raman, however, didn't want to focus on that but instead turn his words towards team bonding — something he values highly in his coaching manual. He praised the way the team played and said that all the players in the team were working very hard to perform well. He talked about the bonhomie in the teams (men and women). "The camaraderie and the friendship within the team is infectious," he said. "Everyone, not just the men but even in the women's team there is this vibrancy. This is what I want to create. This is the India teams of the future where everyone will play as a team together in a very friendly atmosphere. I want to develop a strong unit that will take on the best in the world."

Team events over, all eyes will be on individual, mixed and doubles events now. With one medal in pocket, things are expected to be better.

INDIA ROUND-UP

KIEREN POLLARD THE SWIMMER READY FOR BIG SPLASH

A certain Kieren Pollard is here to compete in his very first Commonwealth Games but he is not a cricketer. The 23-year-old swimmer from Western Australia has attracted a lot of attention as he shares his name with the one of the biggest T20 stars to have come out of the West Indies. However, the striking similarity ends with the name. Pollard the swimmer is supposed to take part in three events and raced alongside India's Srihari Natraj in the men's 200m butterfly.

NATARAJ REGISTERS BEST, BUT FAILS TO ENTER FINAL

Indian swimmer Srihari Nataraj bettered the best Indian time en route a third place finish in heat 2 but could not qualify for the final of the men's 200m backstroke event. Nataraj clocked 2:00.84s to be the first reserve in the event. His previous best was 2:01.70s. In swimming, a timing is considered a national record only when it has been achieved at the national aquatics championships.

WEIGHTLIFTER PUNAM FINISHES LAST IN 76KG

Indian weightlifter Puman Yadav finished last in the women's 76kg category after failing in all her three clean and jerk attempts. Punam, the reigning CWG champion in the 69kg category, was in the silver medal winning position after snatch. Punam, though, started on a disappointing note as she failed to lift 95kg in her first attempt before clearing it in the next. She was placed second after the snatch with Canada's Maya Laylor at the top.

BOXERS ASHISH AND ROHIT IN QUARTERFINALS

In a late bout on Monday, India pugilist Ashish Kumar (80kg) posted a win in his opening bout to move into quarterfinal. Ashish, who was part of 2020 Tokyo Olympics, got the better of Travis Tapateutoa by unanimous verdict (5-0). The 28-year-old now has a strong chance of winning a medal. On Tuesday, Rohit Tokas (67kg) beat Ghana's Kotey Alfred 5-0 to enter quarterfinal.

TAKE A BOW-L

Indian quartet makes history, beats SA for gold to give country's first CWG medal in the sport

GOMESH S @Chennai

WHEN Rupa Rani Tirkey, Lovely Choubey, Nayanmoni Saikia and Pinki took the field against South Africa in the Women's Fours final on Wednesday, they had already made history. Irrespective of what happened over the next few hours, they are part of Indian sporting folklore, becoming the first group of Indians to win a Commonwealth Games medal in Lawn Bowls.

Up until Monday, the vast majority of the 1.3 billion people in India had did not know much about the sport. The sport's origin goes as far back as the 12th century British Empire who took it to the countries they had colonised such as Australia, New Zealand and more. India, however, did not have it until 2007, when it was introduced in the Assam National Games so that they could conduct it in the 2010 CWG they were hosting.

And that is where the four athletes from completely four diverse backgrounds — Lovely was in athletics, Pinki was a former cricketer, Rupa Rani a kabaddi player and Nayanmoni a weightlifter — took up the sport. Having not been able to move forward in their respective disciplines due to various constraints, they took a chance with Lawn Bowls. They came closer to a CWG several times in the past 12 years, but each time it ended with a heartbreak.

That's the reason why they were not satisfied even after entering final. They wanted to go the distance. The Indian team manager Anju Luthra echoed the same words after the semi-final victory against New Zealand.

That said, even before going into the final, they had a couple of hurdles to pass through in the other categories. First up, Lovely and Nayanmoni lost to New Zealand in Women's Pairs Round one at Rink 17 in the Victoria Park Royal Leamington Spa on Tuesday morning. Around the same time, in Rink 10, Taniya Choudhury, Pinki and Rupa Rani overcame the same opponents in Women's Triples. A few hours on, their real challenge awaited.

India started off well, cruising to 8-2, largely thanks to Rupa's brilliance. But, over the next few Ends, the South Africans came back stronger, taking the lead to 10-8. The India team, led by Rupa, never gave up. By the time they went into End 15, India had taken an unassailable five point lead (15-10). As South Africa's Johanna Snyman bowled for one final time, the celebrations had already begun. The result didn't matter as India had won the gold, beating them 17-10. Ecstatic Pinki was down on her knees. The entire Indian team was in tears. The dream that the four women had set out over 12 years ago had finally come true. "We came here wanting to create history, and we've done it," said Lovely. "We wanted to achieve something, not just for ourselves, but for the entire country. Now, so many know about Lawn Bowls and they will take it up, too," said an emotional Pinki.

Before even they properly celebrated, the Indian team had to get ready for the Women's Triples match against England. In a sport that has an enormous share of colonial history associated, four Indian women from distinct backgrounds — who were trying to give themselves a second chance in life and sport — came together to achieve something that has never been done before.

India falter against hosts

AGENCIES @Birmingham

IT was not a very good outing for India women on Tuesday. After the men's team were held by England 4-4 on Monday, the women's team failed to go past the hosts. They lost 1-3 to England in Pool A match in Birmingham.

Egged on by the crowd, England went on the offensive right from the start. They found an early goal after Giselle Ansley (3rd minute) got a deflection off a penalty corner into the Indian goal. Tess Howard made it 2-0 in the third quarter (40th), before Hannah Martin scored the team's third in the fourth and final quarter (53rd).

With few seconds to go for the final hooter, India scored a consolation goal through Vandana Katariya (60th), via a deflection off a penalty corner. The home team started on a strong note, making quick moves and dominating possession to put pressure on India.

Men look to consolidate

The Indian men's hockey team would look to put up a disciplined performance and avoid unnecessary cards in its bid to return to winning ways against Canada at the Commonwealth Games here on Wednesday.

After a thumping 11-0 win over Ghana in their opener, India squandered a three-goal advantage and were held 4-4 by hosts England in their second pool B match.

England made full use of those lapses to put pressure on the Indian defence and they eventually wilted under pressure to share the spoils. India vice-captain Harmanpreet Singh conceded that they need to be more disciplined going forward. "Our resounding win against Ghana was the perfect way to start our Commonwealth Games campaign. But we are a little bit disappointed about our performance against England.

"There are several takeaways from that match for us particularly when it comes to discipline and not letting our guard down when we have a good lead on board," he said.

The Indians are placed second in the pool with four points from a win and a draw, while England are in the lead with seven points from three games.

A win against Canada would consolidate India's position in the group and take them one step closer towards a semifinal spot.

Luck shines on late bloomer Harjinder as she clinches weightlifting bronze

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

IT ain't over until it's over — the saying perfectly sums up the exciting yet so unpredictable climax of the women's 71kg weightlifting competition of the 2022 Commonwealth Games at the NEC Hall 1 in Birmingham on Monday night.

The moment Canada's Alexis Ashworth lifted 123kg in her final clean and jerk attempt, India's Harvinder Kaur was almost out of the medal contention. Suddenly, it appeared the Indian camp committed a blunder by underestimating the Canadian opponent. Before that lift, the duo was fighting for the bronze as the top two places were almost sure for local favourite Sarah Davies and Nigerian lifter Joy Ogbonne Eze.

But then came the twist in the tale. The 18-year-old Nigerian, whose best lift in snatch was 100kg (7kg more than the Indian and 9kg more than the Canadian), couldn't register a single valid lift in her three attempts at the clean and jerk section to go out of the reckoning.

Her ouster meant, Harjinder sneaked into the top-three bracket and finished third with a total lift of 212kg (93kg in snatch and 119kg in clean & jerk). Expectedly, Sarah walked away with the gold by setting Games records in all sections (103kg+126kg=229kg) while Alexis bagged silver by registering an overall lift of 214kg (91kg+123kg).

Speaking on the nail-biting finish, India's head coach Vijay Sharma said, "We were not expecting the Canadian to erase the difference but she proved us wrong. But we should never lose hope and as it turned out, the Nigerian girl, who was going strong till then, faltered in her all three clean and jerk attempts to ensure the medal for us." Earlier, Harjinder started with a failed attempt to lift 90kg in the snatch section but bounced back to lift the same in her next.

THREE CHEERS

Vikas completes hat-trick of CWG medals

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

WEIGHTLIFTER Vikas Thakur needs no introduction as he has won a bagful of medals for the country. He has tasted success at every platform over the years but the lifter seems to have a special liking for the Commonwealth Games. In 2014 with the 85kg silver in Glasgow, Vikas became the first Indian to win a medal in higher weight categories at the event. He followed it up with 94kg bronze in the next edition at Gold Coast.

Pressure must be on him when he took the platform at NEC Hall 1 on Tuesday but the 28-year-old Vikas staved off stiff challenges from Fiji, Cyprus and England lifters to clinch a silver medal in 96kg. With it, he also completed a hat-trick of medals at the quadrennial event.

Vikas lifted a total of 346kg (155kg+191kg) to finish behind Samoa's Don Opeloge, who registered an overall lift of a whopping 381kg (171kg+210kg) smashing all three Games records in the process. Fiji's Taniela Tuisuva Rainibogi walked away with the bronze with a total effort of 343kg (155kg+188kg). It was Vikas's father, Brij Lal Thakur, an Indian Railways employee, who initiated him into the sport. Brij Lal always wanted him to pursue individual sports and boxing was his priority but destiny has something else in store. "I could not find a good boxing club in Ludhiana, Punjab so got him enrolled at a local weightlifting club when he was seven or eight," the father told this daily.

The choice of the sport, however, raised quite a few eyebrows with relatives questioning the decision. "Relatives had problems with Vikas pursuing weightlifting and not any other sports. They even asked me why I don't want him to become an engineer or a doctor. However, once he started winning medals, all those talks faded away," he added.

The father also shared an interesting story from Vikas's childhood when he started off his career. "One day a cop, who too was training at the same club, asked Vikas not to come to the club. He probably thought lifting heavy weights would affect the child's growth. My colleague Parvesh Chandra Sharma, a former India international, under whose wings Vikas was training, sorted out the issue. Interestingly, the same cop distributed 10kg ghee when my son won his first medal."

Earlier, Vikas was placed joint third with the Fiji lifter with the best lift of 155kg in the snatch section. Samoan Opeloge was way ahead of other lifters with the best lift of 171kg while local favourite Cyrille Tchatchet II was second with the lift of 158kg. The Englishman, however, couldn't register a single valid lift in the clean and jerk section to make an exit. Vikas opened a 2kg gap against his Fijian rival in the first clean and jerk attempt by lifting 187kg. In the next attempt, he increased the gap to 3kg to confirm the medal.

Dhanalakshmi handed three-year ban

Indian sprinter Sekar Dhanalakshmi has been handed a three-year ban by the Athletics Integrity Unit of the world governing body for failing an out-of-competition dope test in May. The period of ineligibility was to be four years. But Dhanalakshmi admitted to the doping offence and accepted the sanction, which led to a one-year reduction in her ban period.

Thanks to some common skills, playing poker has become a hobby for most top chess players across the world

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Mahabalipuram

IN April 2022, the International Chess Federation (FIDE) struck an important deal with the Scheinberg family. It said they would sponsor one blue-riband FIDE event every year till 2026. It was a major coup for the organisation to retain this relationship as it had cut its ties with Russian sponsors in the wake of the invasion of Ukraine.

A little bit of history of the Scheinberg family, with respect to how they made their wealth. Isai Scheinberg came up with the idea of PokerStars more than two decades ago. It became an internet behemoth before the family cashed out, selling to Amaya Gaming for roughly $5bn. On the surface, this would seem to be the only link between poker and chess.

But start scratching the surface and the links are endless. Decision trees, predicting the future, patience to remain in your seat without getting frustrated, having an extremely strong memory, a penchant for bluffing, reading body language of the opponent and keeping the long-term view in mind... they are all part of high-stakes poker and chess. There are a lot of transferable skills and players, well aware of it, have not been shy of swapping kings and queens for a king of spades and queen of hearts.

So, it's not a surprise to note that they have tried their hands at poker. The most recent example of crossing this divide was Magnus Carlsen, the reigning world chess champion. In April, he took part in the Norwegian Poker Championship, finishing a creditable 25th out of 1050. He wasn't done. In July, he made the trip across the Atlantic to participate in the World Series of Poker, the game's holy grail. The 31-year-old didn't do all that on the green felt but it was another instance in a long list of elite players trying to take their board skills to the poker table.

The best men's player across both categories right now is Russia's Aleksander Grischuk (Elo rating 2745), a top-20 chess player. He has pocketed a cool $47,000 playing online WSOP (2020 figures).

England GM, David Howell, agrees to the similarity of both games. "Possibly (Is poker and chess linked?)," he tells this daily.

"I mean, Magnus is probably the better person to answer (smiles). He seems addicted to poker these days. Some of the decision-making, some of the psychology, how to read opponents, all the top players are good at that. Whether it's with bluffs, style of play, style of decision-making, I guess that kind of carries over.

When Magnus played the Norwegian Championship a few months ago, he came back and said he had already done some research on players, he knew what to expect, how some of them thought. He was able to bluff a few hands. Knowing yourself, knowing your strengths, knowing your opponents, so yeah (there are some transferable skills)."

Now, the skills aspect of both games are pretty important. But the other part that drives them to the poker table is the money aspect. If you are not a GM, making a living out of the game can be pretty challenging. RB Ramesh, captain of India's B side, opines that money is a crucial element for this crossover. "There is more money in poker than in chess," he explains.

There are two examples to illustrate Ramesh's point. Ylon Schwartz and Jennifer Shahade. The former was a chess player who had a peak Elo-rating of over 2400. He soon left chess to become a professional poker player, where he has had good success with career earnings totalling more than $5mn.

Shahade, a woman grandmaster and two-time national US champion, is currently a MindSports Ambassador at PokerStars where her role revolves around explaining how games like poker and chess help people make better decisions (her current Elo-rating is 2322 and she has accrued substantial earnings playing poker). She is also one of the few chess players to have done a live poker and chess simul, showing off her multi-tabling skills in the process.

Now, not all chess players become good at poker. Only people who know they are good at cards take the dive. This is where tournament chess — meets like the Olympiad, for instance, — is handy.

Gukesh provokes Shirov to engineer huge win

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Mahabalipuram

IN one corner was Alexei Shirov, one of the most aggressive players of the modern era. Sitting opposite him, eyeball-to-eyeball length, was D Gukesh, a player in the middle of a wave. A few weeks ago, he had become one of the youngest ever to breach the 2700 club. If this match was going to be decided on experience, Shirov would win. The Spaniard had become a GM in 1990, 16 years before Gukesh was born. Even leaving aside the aspect of experience, the Spaniard, who lost to Viswanathan Anand in the final of the World Championship in 2000, was favourite the moment the draw was made on Monday. For, the 50-year-old was playing with white. All chess engines agree that there is always an advantage when you open. So, Gukesh, playing with black for a third time in five games, at some level, would always be reacting.

D Gukesh | R SATISH BABU

So, the teenager decided to mix it up a bit. He decided to provoke Shirov from the start. Older heads may have decided to engage him in a slowburner but the kids think differently. He initiated an exchange of queens in the 23rd move knowing it would weaken the Spaniard's position if the latter took up that offer. Shirov obliged and Gukesh knew all that provocation from the start had produced the desired results. "I had the same (provoking him) from the start," he said after the match. "My strategy was to provoke him. He is a very aggressive player and couldn't resist." Such a calculated strategy is why many people within the game feel that he has one of the highest ceilings among this current batch of wunderkinds. Gukesh, whose live ratings (2714.1) puts him in third place among Indians (after Anand and P Harikrishna), though, is nonplussed about all the attention. "I just try to play my game," he said. "I am not sure if things are happening too fast. Only time will tell. For now, things are going well." That's an understatement. He has won all five of his games.

This very clear strategy and the ability to think without worrying about opponents — one of the biggest aspects of chess is playing the board and not the player — is the strength of the B team that continues to lead the leaderboard in the Open section after five rounds. In relation to this Olympiad, this is the biggest win by an Indian player. Apart from Gukesh, Adhiban B won while Nihal Sarin drew. However, it wasn't all smooth sailing for the team as R Praggnanandhaa lost.

MONDAY'S RESULTS (ONLY INDIAN TEAMS)

After the World Championships he has recovered both mentally as well as physically. In what could be called a disappointment, Sreeshankar finished seventh in long jump final at the worlds with a jump of 7.96m. For a man who has been crossing the 8m mark consistently this season, Commonwealth Games was supposed to be that place where he could redeem himself with a good leap.

Entering the field as the season leader, Sreeshankar needed just one jump to clear the automatic qualification mark of 8 metres. He cleared 8.05m and was definitely better than 7.96m he managed in the final of world championships in Eugene last month. His father and coach had been insisting that Sreeshankar had prepared well after the worlds. They had a training stint until July 26 in Eugene and Sreeshankar had been jumping well. "He is relaxed and we are expecting to do well," is what he said. The 23-year-old qualified from Group A. The next best jump was by Laquan Nairn from Bahamas who managed 7.90m. Behind him was Jovan van Vuuren who cleared 7.87m.

The other long jumper Mohammad Anees Yahiya, who was in Group B, qualified with as top 12 best performer with a jump 7.68m, which far off his best of 8.15m. The final is on Thursday.

In women's shot put, Manpreet Kaur Kaur managed 16.78m, which was off the 18-m automatic qualification mark, but managed to qualify as top 12 best performers. Dutee Chand missed out on qualifying for the 100m semifinals after finishing fourth in her heats with a timing of 11.55s.

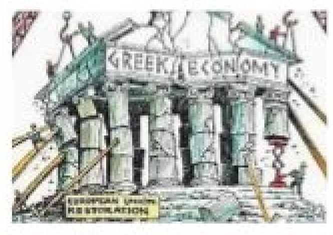
Stock market reopens

On August 3, 2015, Greece's stock market reopened after a five-week shutdown brought on by fears that it would be dumped from the eurozone

IMPACT

The move impacted banking shares severely, with National Bank of Greece going down by 30%. Banks were also emptied of their deposits by paranoid Greek citizens



SUSPENSION OF TRADE

The Athens Stock Exchange and banks were closed on June 29 and controls imposed on withdrawals and transfers to prevent banks from collapsing

DEBT CRISIS

The debt crisis is believed to be the result of excessive borrowing from the European Union, misleading accounting and the 2009 crash

Actor and Lok Sabha MP Shatrughan Sinha, who was in the city for a book launch, reminisces about his old ties with Bengaluru and shares his myriad memories of the city

KHAMOSHI BROKEN

MONIKA MONALISA

THE name Shatrughan Sinha is eponymous with not a film or a dialogue but a word–‘Khamosh’. Although it has been entwined with his life, he is unable to recall when he uttered it for the first time.

Others can try hard to emulate his dialogue, but Sinha is inimitable, and no other voice or acting prowess can replicate the effect of ‘Khamosh’.

Recently, during the book launch of Nautanki Saala by Mohua Chinappa in Bengaluru, the 76-year-old veteran actor showed that he does not need to be in front of a camera or on the big screen to command the attention of his audience. His presence and charm were more than enough to swoon the audience at the Bangalore International Centre.

Sinha reveals that his association with Bengaluru is deeper than many Bengalureans themselves. “The Bengaluru crowd and weather have always been very appealing to me. I have been coming to the city for the past 40 years. I have been here shooting many films. One of my popular songs, which is my favourite too, is Pukaro Mujhe Phir Pukaro from Buniyaad (1972), sung by Kishore Kumar and Lata Mangeshkar,” recalls Sinha, adding that it was shot in front of Vidhana Soudha.

He has many happy memories of the city but there have been some bittersweet ones as well. “When the then Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi was assassinated, I was in the city and was campaigning. I was at Windsor Manor, and I remember that the security was beefed up. I was asked to stay in the hotel, and I left the city on the third day. Everything had come to stand still,” he says as his voice dips.

When Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi was assassinated, I was in the city and was campaigning. I left the city on the third day.

Shatrughan Sinha

Rising from an ordinary life in Patna to becoming a superstar, and now a Member of Lok Sabha, Sinha says he has come a long way in terms of his perception about the world. The actor, who has starred in superhit movies like Kalicharan, Nasseb, Kaala Patthar, is married to Poonam Sinha, about whose career he was indifferent and wanted her to be a homemaker, he admits.

But now, there has been a paradigm shift. As a father, he is extremely supportive of his daughter, Bollywood actor Sonakshi Sinha's career. To which author Bharath S Pradhan, who was also part of the panel, remarked in jest, “Men are always different when it comes to their daughter.”

In reality, he is living by his words as a changed person. For example, when it comes to property, he has made it clear that all his three children will get equal share. “The first choice of the property goes to Sonakshi,” he asserts.

Ebullient and jovial, Sinha is quite optimistic about the younger generation. “Usually people consider me their guru, but today I call the young generation my guru. I am learning a lot of things from them in terms of enthusiasm and commitment, their fitness regime and a healthy routine,” says the veteran actor before signing off.

EDEN OF VEGAN

Vegan lovers in the city were in for a treat as the much-awaited edition of ‘Namu Recommends Vegan Market’, a two-day event featuring vegan and sustainable brands from across the country, was held recently. The event, which saw over 2,500 visitors, featured over 80 carefully-curated brands | SHRIRAM BN

‘B’luru is a Prime Business Centre for Vijayalakshmi Brand’

Since 1980, VL Appliances and its familiar brand, Vijayalakshmi has been catering to the requirements of homes and food industries utilising its strong distribution network. The largest manufacturers and exporters of home appliances with a product-line including wet grinders, mixer grinders, pressure cookers, non-stick cookwares, LPG Stoves, ceiling fans and commercial kitchen equipment, is now venturing into modular kitchens and has huge plans for expansion. N. Suryaa Mani, Director, VL Appliances speaks about the journey so far and the company's future plans.

Briefly tell us about the journey of VL Appliances.

The journey of Vijayalakshmi started in the 1980s through the 1990s when it established itself as a firm player in the home and commercial appliances segment. My elder brother, Rajan Babu, began with wet grinders and commercial kitchen equipment in Coimbatore. He slowly developed an organised unit with 100 employees in the 1990s, supplying mainly to National OEM brands. Later, the brand Vijayalakshmi was developed and since the past 20 years, it has firmly established itself in South India. As on date, we are in Maharashtra and Odisha also.

What is your USP?

Companies in Coimbatore are well known for their quality products and the same trait has been nurtured by Vijayalakshmi too. Today, we are known mainly for our quality and affordability.

Did the pandemic affect business?

The pandemic did not affect us badly. In fact, during the first lockdown, the business grew by almost 25% after which it slowed down a bit.

What is the current overall revenue from your business?

We are looking at Rs 250 crores for the coming financial year and by year 2025, we want to grow to Rs 500 crores.

Tell us about your export focus.

‘Rishab’ is our 100% export oriented brand focusing only on commercial kitchens. Along with the Vijayalakshmi brand, we export to the Middle-East, Singapore, Malaysia and Canada. We want to focus more on exports and plan to raise funds as equity. We are looking at Rs 100 crores private equity fund which might materialise this year.

What are your future plans?

We have recently started Modular kitchens and launched it under the VL Interio brand, which also focuses on home interiors. The plan is to set up offices in all major cities of South India. From this brand, we are expecting revenue of Rs 25 crore only through modular kitchens during 2022-2023.

From the products side, we are going to launch kitchen chimneys and hobs apart from electric rice cookers and kettles. We have our own R&D centre and tool room in Coimbatore, which are well equipped to innovate.

How important is Bengaluru as a centre for you?

Bengaluru is where our commercial manufacturing of customised wet grinders is located. Apart from that, all administrative offices are located in the city. So, the city is a prime business and manufacturing centre for our brand. With VL Interio, the city is much more important to our operations other than Coimbatore.

FIT BIT

URDHVA MUKHA SVANASANA

(UPWARD-FACING DOG POSE)

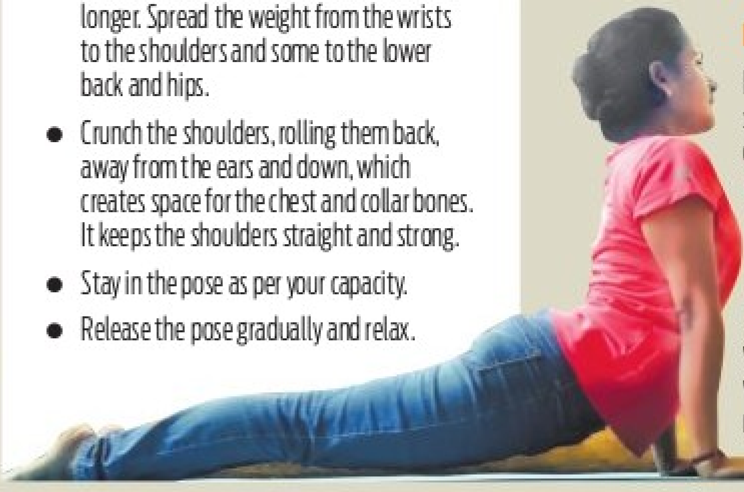
It is a back bending asana that requires strength in the arms, shoulders and wrists, and flexibility in the back. It is one of the most recognised yoga poses and is typically part of Surya Namaskara. It is similar to Bhujangasana (cobra pose). It stimulates the Anahata (heart) Chakra, opening the body to compassion, love and gratitude.

STEPS

- Lie on the stomach and begin deep breathing, relaxing the spine in Makarasana (Crocodile Pose). Stay here for 2-3 breaths.
- Place your palms close to your chest on the floor. Keep arms and elbows aligned close to the body.
- Keep your toes and heels together, tighten the legs and lower back as you breathe. Putting force on the palms, inhale. Exhale, and then inhale, lift the chest, shoulders, arms, elbows, upper abdomen, and legs and take the body backward, straightening the arms.
- Keep your feet on the mat in a curl. Exhale completely. Pull your neck back and look upwards. Stay here with slow, rhythmic breathing. Only the palms and front of the feet should be connected with the mat.
- Ensure the body weight is on the wrists and elbows, not allowing your body to balance longer. Spread the weight from the wrists to the shoulders and some to the lower back and hips.
- Crunch the shoulders, rolling them back, away from the ears and down, which creates space for the chest and collar bones. It keeps the shoulders straight and strong.
- Stay in the pose as per your capacity.
- Release the pose gradually and relax.

BENEFITS

- Enhances spinal flexibility.
- It tones hamstrings, knees, arms, shoulders, and wrists.
- Soles and palms are strengthened.
- Stretches the psoas muscles.
- Opens heart, expands diaphragm and increases breath capacity.
- Creates lung space and gives awareness and focus (concentration).
- Ensures the Sama Vayu is stimulated.
- Helps in treating thyroid imbalance-related ailments, diabetes, insomnia and sleeping disorders.
- Helps cure ailments like constipation, flatulence, IBD, and low appetite.
- Cures migraine and ailments due to Vata doshas.



LIMITATIONS

People with knee, hip, spine, wrist, ankle, or shoulder sprain/injury/surgery, cervical spondylosis, carpal tunnel syndrome, scoliosis, acute lumbar spondylitis, heart issues, weak joints, and pregnant women, and seniors must avoid.

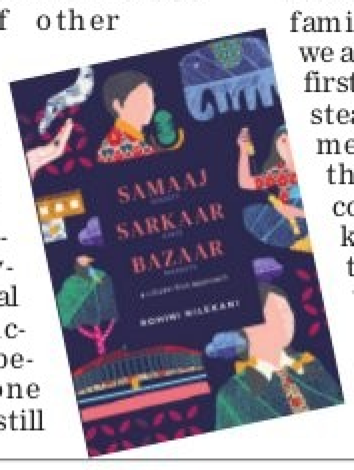
‘WE CANNOT AFFORD TO IDEALIZE SAMAAJ’

TURNING PAGES

AT the heart of my work is the belief that we are all citizens first, rather than simply subjects of the state or consumers of the markets. Even during the reign of monarchs, people interacted freely as civilians or nagariks and only identified as subjects when the gaze of the king turned to them. The Samaaj sector comes first, after all. The Sarkaar and Bazaar were created over millennia to serve an evolving human society and the larger public interest. Even when we act as representatives of the state or the market, we do not forgo our rights and duties as citizens. When we leave our places of work, we return home as citizens, as members of the public, as humans in a collective. All individuals, regardless of their position in the current power structure, need to belong to a society in which they can exercise agency and freedom, and thrive in the association of other citizens.



We must recognize that representational power is limited and fluid. For example, a government official who might accept bribes because everyone else does, will still want a bribe-free atmosphere when his children go to school. A manufacturer whose production process might pollute natural resources, will still want clean air and water for his family. Everyone needs a better society, a better Samaaj, to reach their potential and create the best opportunities for their families. If we forget that we are members of society first and foremost, and instead see ourselves as mere beneficiaries of the state or as mere consumers of the market in search of a better material life, then we endanger the foundational supremacy of Samaaj. And that inevitably will endanger our own interest over time, both as individuals and as communities.

By no means am I suggesting that Samaaj is a monolith with uniform interests. Samaaj is a patchwork quilt, made up of so many threads and patterns, stitched together by time and events. We cannot afford to idealize Samaaj. In India, we continue to struggle against a structured hierarchy of caste that can dehumanize Dalits and other so-called backward castes. There are still millions of Adivasis whose wisdom we have been unable to recognize, whose forest-dwelling lights are ignored and whose desires and ambitions society has been unable to accommodate. Women everywhere still must assert their right to equality in every sphere. Similarly, there are other minorities who feel threatened and pushed back. Perhaps Samaaj has not evolved too much beyond the metaphor of the warring tribes. Throughout history, there have been instances when some Samaaj actors have taken the law into their own hands, resulting in vigilantism and violence, or where the majority has stifled the minority into subjugation. We are seeing some resurgence of these trends in many parts of the world.

Rohini Nilekani

It is precisely the conflicts from competing interests within Samaaj that required the creation of the state for maintaining a rule of law, and the creation of the markets for defining value and coordinating exchange. In fact, much of the work ahead may be to resolve emerging conflicts of identity, power, and resource sharing within Samaaj entities themselves. Yet, I resolutely believe that these issues will have to be settled sustainably within the realms of the Samaaj space, no matter how long it may take. We, as citizens, cannot delegate or offload these responsibilities to the state or to markets. Sarkaar cannot and should not be the sole arbiter of peace and justice; and the Bazaar cannot and should not be the sole provider of community goods and services. For true equity and justice to prevail, it should be elements within Samaaj that assert moral leadership and maintain harmony; that unleash social innovation; and that sustain an atmosphere of respectful social association.

FLYLEAF

VR FEROSE

(The author is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books)

First editions and the birth of the ARC

WHY do people cherish first editions of books? It goes back to the origin of the printing press. When books were first mass produced, the plates on the presses were made of metal or wood. Therefore the first printing was often of the highest quality, which declined with subsequent printings. While print quality has vastly improved over the centuries, the first edition continues to be an object of desire for the collector. Since one of the golden rules of collecting is “the earlier the better”, collectors began to hunt for the Advance Reader’s Copy (ARC).

The ARC is the intermediate version between the author’s manuscript and the final printed book sold to the public. It is primarily a marketing tool. The publishers send it to the media for reviews (a rich source for blurbs!), after which they take time to relook at it, make necessary corrections and promote it ahead of its public release. In the digital age, however, almost all the amendments are done online and very few in the print version.

In publishing jargon, an ARC is also called an uncorrected proof or bound galley. When the book becomes a success or if it goes out of print or develops a loyal fan base or cult following, the proof become valuable for a collector because it is one of a limited number and its text differs from the final version (just as stamps or coins with mistakes are worth more).

The book cover is usually stamped ‘Not for Sale’ in block letters, or displays text stating that the book is a pre-release version.Since the entire focus of the ARC is on the text, many covers are plainly designed — for example the simple black-and-white image for the ARC of Elena Ferrante’s The Story Of the Lost Child.

Some fanatical collectors prize the ARC above the first edition because chronologically it came out first. Collecting it can even be profitable: imagine if you were to get a reviewer copy of a classic like The Alchemist or For Whom The Bell Tolls! The process of getting your ARC reviewed has been democratised. There are now dedicated websites like Book Sirens that help you get free advanced reading copies to review.

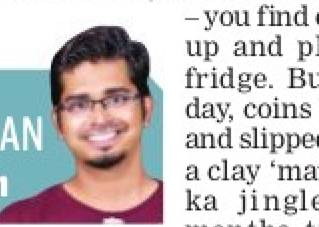
However, ownership rights for the ARC remain debatable. If it was owned by the publisher and not meant for sale, is it morally right to trade it on eBay?The author earns no royalty, and besides, it is the uncorrected version and not the one that the author wanted for its readers. But then you could argue that ARCs were never meant for the reader but for the collector!

For some, the ARC might be a window into the writer’s thought process. As Ian Ellis points out in Book Finds: How to Find, Buy and Sell Used and Rare Books, “For someone seriously interested in a particular writer, these differences between the ARC and the final version of the book can provide insight into the creative process.”

While the debate lingers on, I have managed to get the ARCs of The Circle by Dave Eggers, Factfulness by Hans Rosling, Talking it Over by Julian Barnes and The Conch Bearer by Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni – more by accident than by a deliberate search.

When I received the ARC of my book GRIT: The Major Story, I found two typos that had escaped multiple rounds of editing and checking. That ARC of GRIT remains one of the most special copies of my book because no one else has that copy!

THE SILENT DISAPPEARANCE OF COINS FROM OUR LIVES



HRIDAY RANJAN

Urban Bourbon

(Writer, comedian)

BACK in the day, money meant cash – physical notes and coins that rustled and clinked. To send money to my hostel, my parents sent a ‘Money Order’ – in which they gave money to the local post office. And I waited thousands of miles away, hoping nobody robbed the postman as he brought me the money in a rectangular black bag. When we carried money, we hid it in a ‘secret pocket’ and looked at everybody with suspicious eyes. School fees, medical expenses and wedding burdens were paid for with wads of cash – and nobody was mistaken for a gangster.

Debit cards made life relatively easier – but came with their unique set of problems. You had to find an ATM, stand in line, and hope it was dispensing cash in the correct denominations. ATM robberies were common, so you drew your money and counted it while praying that the guy behind you was an honest, tax-paying citizen and not a psychopath. You swiped your card and waited like an anxious teenager proposing for the first time – hoping your card wasn’t ‘declined’. You had to carry your card at all times. And a lost wallet meant a sudden dip in standards of living. Then, there came netbanking, and the inherently evil money wallet system.

But UPI changed everything. I float from establishment to establishment, buying whatever catches my fancy. The only problem with UPI though, is that you don’t FEEL your money slipping away from you. I scan an image, tap in a few numbers, and voila! A fairy magically takes my money and drops it in the shopkeepers’ bank account! Amidst such paradigm-shifting innovations, it is the humble coin that has completely disappeared from our lives. I haven’t seen the 50p coin – of which you needed 10 to buy a bubble gum – in years. And the square-shaped 5p coin left our lives with sparrows and cable television.

Coins today are treated like hindrances – you find one, you pick it up and place it on the fridge. But back in the day, coins were collected and slipped carefully into a clay ‘matka’. This matka jingle-jangled for months till a hammer cracked it open. The money saved was then used to buy a new frock, or a cricket bat (the two binary options that Indian markets offered to kids back then).

You carried coins to a temple to bribe Gods – praying for immunity from tests, scary teachers, and board exams. Grandparents slipped in coins to give to those asking for arms outside temples, mosques, and gurudwaras. To sneak out a note required skills and a determined mind. But you could sneak a coin out of your father’s pocket or mother’s purse. These coins were used to purchase items that parents didn’t realise the value of – bubble gums, trinkets, or the scented eraser that erased nothing but smelled lovely. You could use a coin to check your weight at a railway station, or drop it into a holy river while travelling across a bridge. A coin was crucial to the beginning of a cricket match. You could drop a coin into a phone booth to make an urgent call to a friend. Or request a lover to recharge your phone.

The government tried introducing the ₹10 coin, which didn’t exactly send the nation into a tizzy. Why would you not carry a note, instead of a heavy object that looks like something stolen from the Gringotts bank? There might be two sides to a coin – but they’re both rather sad. Today, my coins sit scattered on my desk, waiting for a purpose – silently judging me for dumping them when life gave me easier options.

CE FEATURES

HARISH Raj is glad to have completed 25 years in the industry. The actor, who began his career at the age of 19, initially worked with veteran directors Girish Kasaravalli (Thaayi Saheba), and Rajendra Singh Babu (Dhoni Sagali).

Today, Harish is happy to have worked in over 70 films, and he also prides on having his name etched in the Limca Book of Records for featuring in 16 different roles, in his devotional film, Sri Satyanarayana, produced and directed by him.

The actor currently shooting for a docu-drama is also waiting for the release of 20/20, which has him sharing screen space with Komal in the comedy entertainer directed by K L Rajashekar. Harish is equally happy to have made a mark in the Malayalam industry as well. "My debut in Malayalam was with the Asif Ali-starrer B Tech. The film was a big hit, and my role as an antagonist was received well. I also got to work with Mohanlal's son Pranav in Irupathiyonnaam Noottaandu, and the Mammootty-starrer CBI 5. I'm looking forward to getting more work in that industry," says Harish Raj.

'IT'S A FEATHER IN MY CAP TO BE THE GAALIPATA GIRL'

...says actor Vaibhavi Shandilya, who shares her experience of working in Gaalipata 2, and more

A still from the film Gaalipata 2

Vaibhavi Shandilya

A SHARADHAA

VAIBHAVI Shandilya, who marked her south Indian debut with the Kannada film, Raj Vishnu (2017), waited for the right script to return to Sandalwood, and she finally signed Gaalipata 2. "Who can say 'No' to a combo, which has Yogaraj Bhat and Ganesh? With the original film still having an emotional connection with Kannadigas, accepting this film was easy, and I couldn't wait to return to the industry that made me an actor. I also love living in Bengaluru," says Vaishnavi, who feels lucky to be the 'Gaalipata Girl'.

The film has Vaibhavi starring opposite Ganesh, and despite not knowing much of Kannada, the former ensured she did her homework before even giving the audition. "For a person, who is not very aware of the Kannada language, I learned that Gaalipata means 'Kite'. I also made sure to watch the first installment twice. As an actor, if I'm working in a language that I don't know, I watch it once with subtitles, and the second time without subs to understand the film better. I felt Gaalipata was a sweet family drama and had many elements to it. The film made me understand the director's working style, which also helped me to work for Gaalipata 2," she explains.

In Gaalipata 2, Vaibhavi plays Shwetha, a small-town girl, who has studied Kannada literature and loves the language. "Shwetha is a calm-minded and understanding person," says Vaibhavi talking further about the pressures of working in a Yogaraj Bhat film. "The lines given by him are like written in gold, and I had to pronounce them perfectly in Kannada. I would make sure to go through all my lines, at least a day prior. I never took prompts or help to ensure I wasn't disrespecting the director and his vision. I felt that I should be up to the mark, and make Gaalipata 2 a feather in my cap," she says.

Gaalipata 2 brings together an ensemble, and Vaibhavi agrees that it is a welcome move too. "Every story needs different types of actors to be involved. It can't always be a 'One Man show'. Of course, I love to be part of films that have me in the solo lead along with the hero, and that's a different feeling altogether. However, the Gaalipata franchise gives actors like me the space to work with some of the top actors, and I see it as a learning curve. The duration of my role never bothers me," says Vaibhavi who reiterates that Yogaraj Bhat has written the script in such a way that it gives equal importance to every actor in the film.

Meanwhile, Vaibhavi, who also plays the lead heroine in Dhruva Sarja's Martin, is overwhelmed with the love she is receiving from Karnataka. "I'm in discussions with a few directors, and I'm happy to have more Kannada films coming my way. If I get to shine in the Kannada industry, the whole credit will go to the Karnataka audience. It takes a huge heart to love a person, who is not from their land."

Backed by Ramesh Reddy's Suraj Productions, Gaalipata 2, which stars Pawan Kumar, Diganth Manchale, Sharmiela Mandre, Nishvika, and Samyuktha Menon in pivotal roles, is slated for an August 12 release.

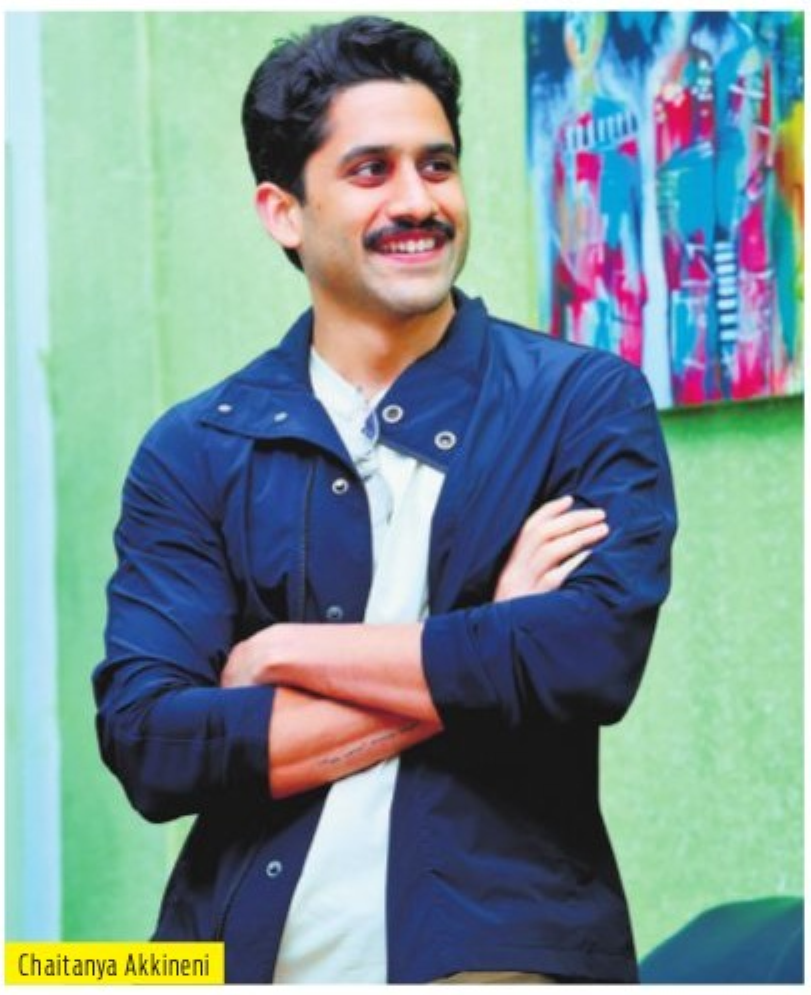
My mediocre Hindi is the reason for declining Bollywood film offers: Chaitanya



Chaitanya Akkineni

CE FEATURES

CHAITANYA Akkineni, who will mark his Hindi debut with Laal Singh Chaddha, revealed that he intentionally avoided Hindi films for a long time.

The actor who predominantly works in Telugu films plays Balaraju Bodi in the Aamir Khan starrer film. Chaitanya reprises the role of Bubba in Tom Hanks' Forrest Gump.

Chaitanya said that he got several offers for Hindi films, but he declined them because he considers his Hindi to be mediocre.

The actor said, "I was raised in Chennai before moving to Hyderabad. As a result, my Hindi needs improvement. I have been sort of insecure about that for a very long time. 'Shah Rukh Khan sang Darlings song 'La Ilaaj' on phone, wanted it for himself'

CE FEATURES

VISHAL Bhardwaj on Tuesday said Darlings co-producer and Bollywood superstar Shah Rukh Khan was so impressed by La Ilaaj that he sang the film's song to the music composer over a phone call. Shah Rukh is producing Darlings, the upcoming Netflix film, via his Red Chillies Entertainment along with lead star Alia Bhatt's banner Eternal Sunshine Productions.

Vishal has composed the track which is penned by veteran lyricist-writer Gulzar. The duo is credited for creating hit songs for films such as Maachis, Maqbool, Omkara and Kaminey, among others.

"Shah Rukh called me one night around 12-12.30 am. He started singing the song on the phone. He sang the entire song. Then he started narrating the meaning of it... He said 'It would have been more fun had the song been for me'," the composer told reporters here. It was heartening to be praised by Shah Rukh, said Vishal.

Shah Rukh Khan

"I felt so nice... He is the producer of the film. He listened to the song, called and appreciated it. This is what we, artistes, want in our lives. We only seek appreciation," he added.

The composer was speaking at the launch event of La Ilaaj. Vishal was joined by Alia and other Darlings cast members Shefali Shah, Vijay Varma, Roshan Mathew, film's director Jasmeet K Reen and producer and Red Chillies Entertainment COO Gaurav Verma.

Vishal dedicated the song, the title of which means 'incurable', to his close friend and frequent collaborator Tabu. As a filmmaker, he has worked with the actor on Maqbool, Haider and the upcoming Netflix film Khufiya. "She is 'la ilaaj' for me, I'm 'la ilaaj' for her. I can't work without her," he added.

Also an acclaimed director, Vishal said he considers himself a music composer first. He started his career as a music director with films such as Maachis and Satya, and went on to make his directorial debut with Makdee in 2002. "I became a director so that I can employ myself as a music composer. Otherwise, no one was taking me," he said.

Darlings, a Mumbai-set dark comedy, will stream on Netflix from Friday.
